Columbus, March 27.—The weather bureau in Columbus issued a warning this morning that the Scioto river here may reach the twenty foot stage within the next twelve hours. This would be one foot under flood stage.

However, the weather bureau predicted colder weather for tonight, along with more rain. It was hoped the colder weather would help check the rising waters. Several houses in the bottoms are surrounded with water. On the west side of the city, where the 1913 flood did so much damage, some families were reported to be moving their household goods to higher ground.

Up to 1913 the flood stage in Columbus was 17 feet. After the flood that year the levees were raised to 21 feet. The high water this morning had shifted a piling under the West Broad street bridge and heavy traffic over the structure was prohibited by police.

Water was reported seeping through the levee below Mound street this morning.

Although the local weather bureau and city officials declared today that there was no danger of a flood, a continued rise in the Scioto river caused scores of families living on the West Side of the city to move their household goods to higher ground.

Several schools and many shops on the West Side, where the 1913 flood took a toll of more than 90 lives, were closed today because of the activity of residents in moving their furniture. Only fifteen of several hundred children reported this morning at the Pleser school and they were dismissed. At the Dana avenue school only five reported.

Early this morning the weather bureau here issued a warning that the Scioto river would reach the 20 foot stage some time tonight. As the levees were raised to 21 feet after the 1913 flood, it was announced there would be no danger.

City trucks were loaded with sandbags and were being kept in readiness should any of the levees spring serious leaks. City officials, with gangs of police and firemen, began an inspection of the levees and found them in good condition. Water began seeping through one levee, but the levee was repaired immediately.

Governor Willis and Adjutant General Hough went to the river at noon to ascertain the situation. More rain with colder weather is reported for Columbus tonight. It was hoped the colder weather would help check the rising waters.

Ambulances were kept busy all day removing invalids from the West Side in anticipation of a flood.

CHARGES DONAHEY MORE EXTRAVAGANT THAN LEGISLATURE

Columbus, March 27.—John P. L. Maynard, clerk of the Ohio house of representatives today replied to State Auditor Donahey's charges of extravagance against the last session of the general assembly. Mr. Maynard declared there were few unwarranted expenditures. He said the constitutional committee, of which Mr. Donahey was a member, spent more than the last general assembly on most items which the state auditor charges constitutional extravagances. Comparisons were drawn with the expenses of the state auditor's department to show that the department spends more proportionately than the legislature. Mr. Donahey is charged with reporting records inaccurately for the sake of unfairly criticizing the general assembly.

District Attorney Says He Now Has Sufficient Evidence to Warrant an Indictment.

New York, March 27.—The finding of new clues which may lead to the discovery of accomplices of Dr. Arthur Warren Waite, accused of the murder of his father-in-law, John E. Peck, Grand Rapids millionaire, caused District Attorney Swann today to delay asking for an indictment before the grand jury until tomorrow.

"We will have sufficient evidence before the jury today to warrant an indictment for murder in the first degree," said the district attorney, "but in order to follow out certain important new leads we will hold the grand jury over until tomorrow."

The district attorney declines to reveal the nature of the new clues, but intimated that others might be involved in the alleged murder plot and that further investigation might disclose that there was to have been more than one victim.

His condition seemed much improved and physicians said his mind was evidently clearing from the effects of the drugs he took. "Why am I here? Why don't they take me out and have it over with?" The physicians quoted him as saying.

New developments are promised after the arrival here today of Assistant District Attorney Mancuso, Dr. Harry Schurz, the Peck family physician, and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Peck from Grand Rapids. Percy Peck is a son of John E. Peck. Intimations were made that the inquiries of the prosecutor are now directed to solving the question whether Dr. Waite was solely responsible for the poisoning of the aged drugist or whether one or more persons had engaged with him in a plot to murder Peck and possibly others.

That the grand jury would return some kind of an indictment was predicted. Mr. Mancuso, Percy Peck and Dr. Harry Schurz are expected to be witnesses before the jury today. District Attorney Swann said today that he had evidence that Dr. Waite had made a considerable study of deadly germs, for what purpose the prosecutor did not indicate.

Dr. Waite has given to his brother authority to restore to Miss Catherine A. Peck, sister of John E. Peck, the funds remaining from the $40,000 she entrusted to Dr. Waite for investment. It is reported that Miss Peck has promised to supply funds for the dentist's defense under certain conditions.

Severing Relations With Germany Again Is Being Discussed as a Result of Gravity of the Situation

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Washington, March 27.—American officials view the submarine situation as taking on aspects of much gravity. The possibility of breaking off diplomatic relations with Germany is again being discussed as one of the eventualities which is expected to follow if it is shown that the steamers Sussex and Englishman were victims of submarines.

It was stated authoritatively here today that should it be shown that a German submarine attacked the Sussex, Germany would destroy the act, offer reparations, punish the submarine commander and satisfy the United States that the act was in violation of instructions.

It was also stated authoritatively that the German ambassador, Count von Bernstorff, was mainly responsible for the recent retirement of Grand Admiral von Tirpitz, who is understood to have been eliminated because of his views on submarine warfare after Count von Bernstorff had made certain references to the imperial chancellor, von Bethmann-Hollweg.

Officials say they are examining all the facts at hand with open minds, and can come to no conclusion before they have additional information, but there is an undercurrent of uneasiness over the possibility that German submarines have renewed their activities against passenger-carrying ships in violation of the assurances given to the United States.

All administration officials refrained today from making definite statement as to future action. However, there was no concealing that everywhere the new situation was regarded as very delicate. The impression was general that if it should be established that the ships were victims of submarines and President Wilson decided to take action he first would consult congress.

Senators and representatives who called at the White House reflected the view that the situation was serious.

State department officials said they had no information that any other than German submarines were operating in the vicinity in which the Sussex was attacked. All agents in the vicinity were being used today to get their conclusive evidence from all possible agencies.

Consular Agent Whitman at Boulogne reported today that he was informed by French officials that a piece of bronze, resembling a part of a torpedo had been found on the channel liner Sussex.

According to information here the ambassador was advised that Admiral Tirpitz proposed to conduct a relentless submarine campaign against all shipping to British ports and was asked what, in his opinion, would be the effect of such a campaign upon neutral nations, particularly the United States. The ambassador's reply is said to have been an important factor in the retirement of the admiral.

Knowing these facts and the attitude of the German government, Teutonic officials are certain that if

ALL AMERICANS Reported Aboard the Sussex Now Are Accounted For.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Paris, March 27, 12 15 p. m.—Detailed information gathered here by the American embassy indicates that no Americans lost their lives on the Sussex.

Prof. James Mark Baldwin and Mrs. Baldwin were saved, it is authoritatively announced. They are at Wimereux, near Boulogne. Miss Elizabeth Baldwin, their daughter, was badly injured on the Sussex and is now in a hospital at the same place.

All reports of the disaster give great praise to a young French naval officer, who walked up and down the deck of the Sussex encouraging the passengers with assurances that the vessel would not sink. He induced many persons to remain on board instead of jumping into the sea. The survivors generally agree that the Americans showed great self possession in many cases sacrificing their own chances of safety in favor of women and children.

Samuel Bemis reached a lifeboat but left it when it became overloaded with women and children. He took to a raft and floated about for some time until he met another raft on which floated another survivor.

They spliced the rafts together with their neckties and saved a number of persons who were still in the water. One of the women survivors states that two lifeboats were wrenched from her by men. An American gave her a third belt.

Joshua Dickinson Armistead of New York is in a hospital at Dover, according to a dispatch just received from there. He is badly injured but will probably recover.

Of the four Americans reported up to last night as missing from the Sussex, three have been located. Calopne Anastasia Fennel of New York is still unaccounted for.

All the Americans whose names were on the passenger list have now been accounted for, the embassy states. It is possible, however, that there may have been among the passengers some Americans whose names were not inscribed.

London, March 27.—The French steamship Hebe, 1,194 tons, the British steamship Cerne and the British fish carrier Khartoum of Hull have been sunk.

The crews of the Hebe and Cerne have been landed. Two members of the crew of the Khartoum have been saved but it is feared the remaining nine men were drowned.

Both Germany and Austria have denied that their submarines destroyed the ship.

Continuation of a violent bombardment east of the Meuse river, north of Verdun, indicates the probability that new attacks by the Germans may be expected in that direction. The front between Douaumont and Vaux is bearing the brunt of the attack.

The Balkan theater of war is attracting renewed attention by reason of the increasing activity north of Saloniki, where the skirmishing between Teutonic allies and entente forces that has been proceeding for some days is now apparently taking the form of a general attack against the Franco-British lines. It is not believed in entente circles in Athens, however, that serious attempt at the capture of Saloniki is intended.

Berlin declares that Saturday's British air raid on a German aviation base on the north Frisian coast was a complete failure. The British have admitted the loss of three seaplanes and a torpedo boat destroyer.

Two German armed trawlers were sunk and the German admiralty reports that one German torpedo boat is missing.

It is now believed that no American lives were lost when the steamer Sussex was blown up in the English channel last Friday. Eleven lives were lost when the British steamer Minneapolis was sunk last week in the Mediterranean, London announced today.

Sinking of several additional vessels, presumably in the continuation of submarine operations, is reported today. The craft sunk include the British steamer Cerne and the French carrier Hebe. A British fish carrier, the Khartoum, also was sunk and it is feared several of her crew was drowned.

In Paris today was begun the war conference of the entente allies, considered the most important to be held since the outbreak of hostilities.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Washington, March 27.—Threatened complications in the Mexican situation disappeared today when the senate Republicans decided to accept the administration's assurance that sufficient troops were on the border for protection of American interests and determined not to carry the agitation for more troops further at this time.

Major General Funston's dispatches revealed no new developments in the pursuit of Villa and reports from naval vessels on both coasts of Mexico disclosed nothing disquieting.

Elesio Arredondo General Carranza's ambassador, at the direction of his chief, presented to Secretary Lansing some proposals to broaden the protocol covering the joint pursuit of the Villa bandits.

The protocol suggested by General Carranza was designed to cover use of Mexican railways by American troops in pursuit of Villa and would provide a working agreement under which instructions could be issued by both governments to the military commanders to cover any contingency.

The gun boat Marietta has been ordered from Vera Cruz to Tampico to aid in protecting American interests. Today's report from Tampico said conditions were unchanged with quiet prevailing, but that it was desired to have light draft navy vessels at that point which can go up the river to the town. The battleship Kentucky, now off Tampico, proceeded to Vera Cruz. Americans in Tampico oil regions are still apprehensive and the Marietta and Machias will remain at that port as long as there is any alarm. There are some 2,000 Americans in the vicinity.

Republican senators assembled in conference today to renew consideration of the Mexican situation with a view to agreeing upon a definite policy with relation to border protection. Senate Democrats hastily were summoned in caucus by Majority Leader Kern. Administration senators would not discuss the purpose of the caucus.

The senate Democrats insisted that their caucus was called to consider the repeal of the free sugar clause of the tariff and was not for the purpose of taking up the Mexican situation. Several of the leaders, however, predicted that the Mexican issue would crop out.

Administration assurances that a sufficient military force now is protecting American interests on the Mexican border influenced Republican senators in a conference called to consider the border situation today to take no action. The conference instructed Senator Gallinger, the chairman, to issue a statement setting forth its views.

Tariff Commission Bill Is Introduced and Explained as Administration Measure

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Washington, March 27.—A revised bill for permanent non-partisan tariff commission on lines suggested by President Wilson and which, it is said, has received his full approval, was introduced in the house today by Representative Rainey of Illinois, ranking Democratic member of the ways and means committee.

"The bill in its present form has the approval of the administration and will be the administration measure on this subject," Mr. Rainey declared in a statement accompanying the measure.

"It will be supported by all the democratic members of the ways and means committee and it is hoped it will receive the support of the Republican members of that committee. The bill is as nearly non-partisan as it is possible to make it."

The bill would provide for the appointment of six commissioners at $10,000 a year each, no more than three of whom can belong to the same political party. The first appointments are to be made for two, four, six, eight, ten and twelve years, after which the terms of office of all are to be for twelve years. The chairman and vice-chairman must be elected biennially, according to the terms of the bill. The duties of the commission are to investigate the administrative and fiscal effects of the customs laws of this country, relations between the rates of duty on raw materials, and finished products, effects of ad valorem and of specific duties, all questions relative to schedules and classification of articles in the law and to put all in its possession at the disposal of the president, the house ways and means committee, and the senate committee on finance.

The bill would give the commission full power to investigate the tariff relations between the United States and foreign countries, commercial treaties, preferential provisions, the effect of export bounties, preferential transportation, the volume of importations compared with domestic production and of conditions, causes, and effects relating to competition of foreign industries, including cost of production and dumping.

Wonderful Mexican Ponies Carry Villa Bandits Before United States Cavalrymen

El Paso, March 27.—Pursuit of Francisco Villa had developed today into a race between cavalrymen of the United States and the fleeing bandits mounted on the wonderful Mexican ponies.

According to dispatches from the front, Villa has broken through the Carranza line and is fleeing southward with the American troops standing every nerve to catch up with him before he reaches the formidable mountain wastes in his ancient haunts in the Guerrero district. The one hope of a speedy termination to the chase is that the flight of the bandits will be checked by starvation and exhaustion of their ponies. It is known that Villa is almost destitute of both supplies and ammunition and the dead and dying horses found along his trail give evidence of his desperate haste and need.

Once safely in the midst of the Sierras, the task of running the bandits to his lair will have become one of tremendous difficulty. This country is inhabited by the Tarahumara Indians, one of the most distinctive tribes in Mexico.

The most ominous news that has reached the border since pursuit of the bandits began was contained in a dispatch from the front yesterday which stated that half the Carranza garrison at Namiquipa had disappeared and that it was expected that "some of them at least also have joined Villa."

The fact that this news was passed by the censor was regarded as significant here where every report from the interior of Mexico has agreed that there was disaffection among the Carranza troops.

It is pointed here that there are very good reasons why the men in the ranks, at last, should desert the standard of General Carranza. They received only about ten cents a day and are reported to be in dire need of food and equipment. The first chief has given strict orders against looting which are said to be generally obeyed. Against this Villa not only permits, but encourages his followers to loot and his customary pay is a bullet.

The American forces have been allowed the privilege of using the Mexican telegraph wires between Madera and Juarez, it was announced today by General Gaviarra, the Carranza commander at Juarez. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2.)

Hundreds of families living on the West Side who earlier in the day had not expected to move, shortly after noon began to work frantically removing furniture to the second floors of their homes. All moving vans in the city were pressed into service, but these could accommodate comparatively few families. Taxicab agencies were swamped with orders for the transfer of West Siders and their belongings.

Steady caravans of people, carrying baskets of provisions and suit cases full of clothing streamed from the West Side during the early afternoon hours. Most were accompanied by children. Streets leading to the river were so crowded with refugees that police drove them back to make way for vehicle traffic.

With the Scioto river steadily rising, city officials met this afternoon and organized a committee to take care of the situation should it become acute.

Refugees began to invade the state capitol building this afternoon, and prepared to spend the night there if the river does not recede. State officials and officers' employees gave up their chairs to the women and children who had fled from the West Side with only their personal belongings.

(Associated Press Telegram)
Field Headquarters American Expeditionary Force, Colonia Dublin, Mexico, March 26.—(By Aeroplane to Columbus, N. M., March 27.)—General J. J. Pershing announced last night the establishment of a new base in the pursuit of Villa. The second base is much nearer the location where the bandit is reported in retreat than the old base at field headquarters.

Evidence that Pancho Villa is preparing to resist the American pursuing columns and that the Mexican people are not yet rallying to him, has been collected by the officers and the scouts of the American troops.

All communications, however, are censored by General Bertrani, the Carranza commander at Madera.

Flying columns of American cavalry today are seeking to entrap Francisco Villa and his band by sealing up all the trails and passes in the mountainous district south of El Valle. With the outlaws barred, squadrons of cavalry and detachments of infantry, operating from the base near Casas Grandes, will comb the country to drive the bandit in the open.

This is the plan military authorities are using to capture the peon brigand.

Villa and his band are moving among the foothills of Sierra Tarahumara, hotly pursued by three columns of American cavalry. Colonel George A. Dodd is directing the movement.

Villa scattered his command in his flight southward and at one time was learned today, led only a small force of fifteen or twenty men. The army censor at Columbus has permitted the information to pass that had Villa increased his command at El Valle by forcing thirty-five young men and boys to accompany him.

Military men here say this indicates that Villa now believes that he has successfully eluded his pursuers and is in position to move a large body of men without fear of capture. Brigadier General Pershing expects that it will take months to capture Villa.

FINDING BODY OF WOMAN MAY BE MURDER MYSTERY

(Associated Press Telegram)
Elyria, O., March 27.—County authorities here face a murder mystery in the finding today of the body of an unidentified woman frozen in a ditch in the Alfred Mills woods, three miles east of Elyria, near Ridgeville. After an autopsy, the coroner declared the woman had been slain.

She had been dead at least two weeks, he said. A fractured skull and knife cuts about the eyes and lips disclosed in the post mortem, were facts upon which the murder theory was based.

The woman was well dressed and appeared to have been about 35 years old. There were no marks of identification.

The body was found by a boy employed on the Mills farm, once set about to try to unravel the crime.

OLD TIMER IS VISITOR TO NEWARK

"Uncle Billy" Edwards of Detroit, famous White House chef in the days of Presidents Hayes and Harrison, is in town today the guest of his old friend Jesse H. Walters, proprietor of the Arcade Hotel.

Uncle Billy, known to hotel men from coast to coast, is the oldest chef-steward in the International Stewards Association of which he is one of the founders and of which Mr. Walters is a member.

Mr. Edwards is 83 years young. He is as active as a man of 60 and possesses the same mental and physical vigor he has always enjoyed. He was chef at the White House for years and he served the inaugural dinner of President McKinley. He carries a beautiful gold watch the gift of President McKinley made through the Illinois Republican club in 1897.

Uncle Billy is a veteran steward, a civil war veteran, and a veteran river man. Over sixty years ago he was a cabin boy on a Mississippi river boat line. In the civil war he was in Co. K, 7th Ohio cavalry, later being assigned to the band in the Twentieth arm. corps as its director. Uncle Billy is an Elk, a Shriner and G. A. R. member. Today he was shown about town by Mr. Walters and Mr. W. C. Kuster. Uncle Billy is enjoying his visit to Newark and his host is glad of the opportunity to entertain him.

DUPLICITY

OF BULGARIAN SECRET SERVICE AGENT TOWARD AMERICAN ATTACHE

Caused His Arrest—He Was Formally Acquitted, However, of the Charge of Espionage.

(Associated Press Telegram)
Sofia, Bulgaria, March 24, via London, March 27, 12:20 P. M.—The state prosecutor has entered an appeal in the case of Frank A. Couche, of Ohio, formerly attache of the American legation at Bucharest, who recently was acquitted of a charge of espionage.

It is expected, however, that Mr. Couche will be permitted to leave Bulgaria without a new trial. Mr. Couche's liberation is due to the efforts of Dominic Murphy, American consul general at Sofia. Mr. Couche arrived here a month ago on his way to Saloniki. At his trial he said he was going to Saloniki as a representative of an American shoe firm.

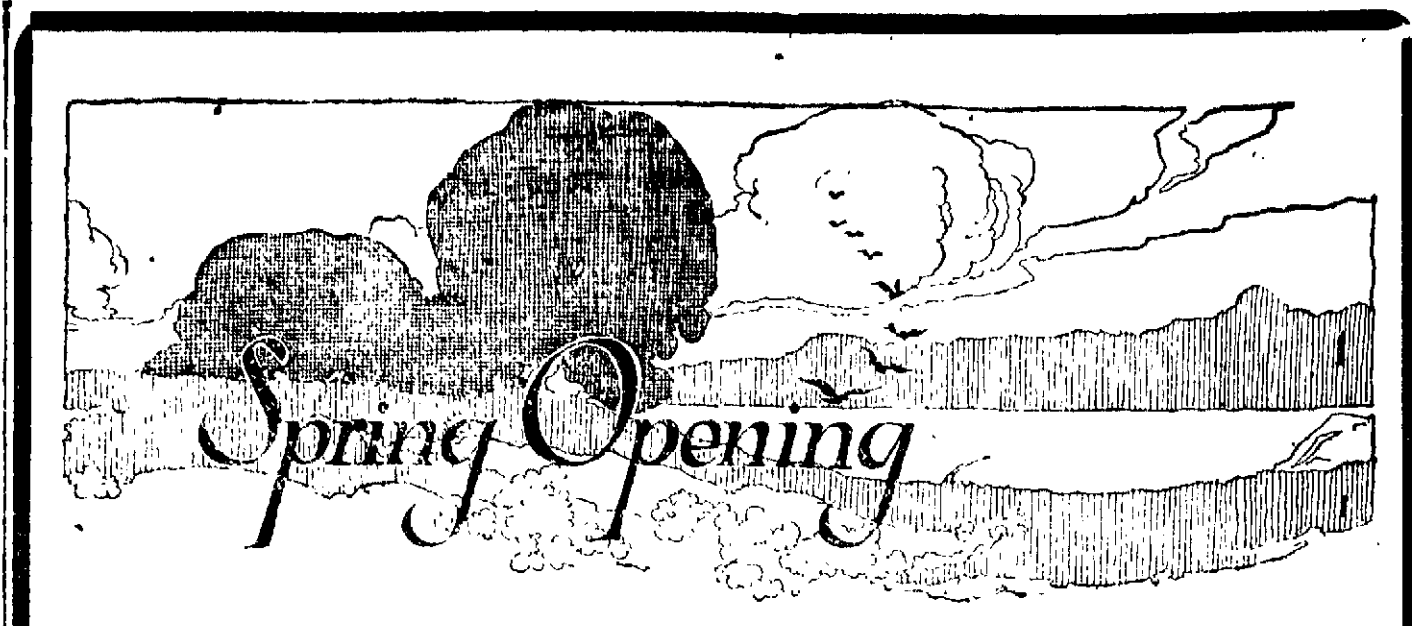

The Bulgarian border toward Saloniki was closed at the time of his arrival and he entered into negotiations for a permit which would enable him to cross. He is said to have paid $500 and 300 francs on different occasions.

Mr. Couche did not know he was dealing with a Bulgarian secret service agent. After he boarded a train for the south he was arrested.

Mr. Couche told the Associated Press he had important business in Saloniki and paid the money for a permit because he understood it was customary in the Balkans. At the foreign office the statement was made that Mr. Couche's liberation was due to the desire of the Bulgarian government to foster good relations with the United States.

The Church Ad-Writer.
Writing of sermons and writing of advertisements for the newspapers are two very different things. The preacher puts his headlines into his climax, whereas the advertising man puts his into the text at the very beginning of the story. Church advertising should not only tell of the work of the church, but should make men understand its spirit. There is distinct value in paying for advertising space in a newspaper. Such advertising begins confidence in the church on the part of the public. We have no right to look upon a daily newspaper as a philanthropic enterprise. It is usually conducted upon a business basis. If the church receives direct benefit from newspaper advertising, it should be willing to pay for it, just as it pays for its coal and gas and general upkeep.—The Christian Herald.

Announcing Our Complete Showing Of The Latest Designs in Coats, Suits, Frocks, Skirts and Waists Your Critical Inspection Will Honor Us

AFTER many weeks of preparation we take pleasure in announcing that our displays of Ladies' and Misses' Spring Coats, Suits, Frocks, Skirts and Waists are fully complete. We earnestly believe that every style of any importance in the Fashion world will be found in these vast assortments. Our buyers have kept in close touch with every change of Fashion and have also had a watchful eye for new originalities. As a result many of the newer models will be found here exclusively. An inspection will thoroughly convince you that this store is showing the greatest assortments, better variety and styles far above the average. Your attendance here any day this week will greatly honor us.

IMPORTANT DISPLAY OF CHILDREN'S WEAR Reflecting the Newer and Latest Style Ideas

It requires a peculiar exactness to select the exactly proper apparel for the small child; a garment that will fit to the last mite and yet be just appropriate in style and finish to the little one in question.

The handrum methods a more stylish processes that have crept into the making of children's wear get no sympathy or tolerance here. We are just as scrupulous about choosing modish and superbly tailored garments for the little lady as for her seniors.

Bring the children here and let them try on the new coats, dresses and hats. We know that you will agree with us that it is the best showing in the city.

See Our Window Display Tonight

We have secured some imported novelties in coats, suits, dresses and waists. These will be displayed in our show windows beginning tonight. Don't fail to see them.

ESTABLISHED IN 1820

Entered as Second Class Matter
 March 19, 1882, at the postoffice at Newark, Ohio, under Act of March 3, 1879.

The bustle is in style now, and is much seen in military quarters.

There is a widespread feeling among the milliners that they should have been consulted before Easter was appointed for so late a date.

Newspaper enterprise is a mighty good thing within reason, but just now along the border, the principal beneficiary seems to be Francisco Villa.

In spite of the fact that he is thoroughly disapproved of by Colonel Roosevelt, President Wilson, after mature deliberation, has decided not to resign.

All this trouble in Mexico is due to the fact that the warriors of that country have discontinued the useful and patriotic task of killing each other and have transferred their activities elsewhere.

Twelve thousand people paid more than $150,000 to see the Willard-Moran boxing bout in New York Saturday night. It was the largest crowd that ever saw an indoor pugilistic contest in New York and the receipts of the affair likewise broke all records in New York City. The champion, Willard, proved that he is as good as ever.

Life of Government Clerks.

Quite a stirring of the dry bones is reported from Washington. Some perniciously active congressman has actually proposed that the government clerks work eight hours a day instead of seven. This would be dreadful. It would interfere with the sacred custom of five o'clock tea. Congressman Griffin of New York seemed to sense more keenly the spirit of the age. A six hour day is coming in the departments, he said.

The country as a whole has never been able to understand why the clerks could work but seven hours. It is shorter than the usual schedule in private business.

To hear Washington people talk, one would think the clerks a misunderstood and abused class of people. They are represented as grubbing out their lives in arduous service that is not appreciated and is but poorly paid.

The government service has never attracted a brilliant class of men. It is an honorable career, and conditions should be such that an active man could get deserved promotion.

Daily History Class—March 27.

1847—United States forces captured Vera Cruz, Mexico, after a spirited siege.

1915—British passenger ship Falaba sunk by German submarine off Wales; 111 lives lost, including an American.

Aunt Caline Says:

Ab Hittis walked into the oyster supper the other night terrible drunk. The minister took him by the arm and put him in it. He didn't think they'd better walk on home, and Ab said much be they had. So when they come to the street where Ab lives the minister says, "Mr. Hittis, this is your street." Ab stopped and says, very grave, "You are laboring under a mistake Brother Smith, for this is not my street. I am a very poor man and I don't own nothing."

Escape From the Hands of a Dog. The Summerfield correspondent of the Cleveland Citizen relates an experience which recently befell Mr. Joseph J. Ashby, the prominent and substantial citizen of near Summerfield, at the hands of a valuable dog. Ohio State Journal.

It was the more incident of the dog's inability to climb a tree. Mr. Ashby escaped. But if we were Mr. Ashby we should make it our business to see that that dog was band-cuffed.

Did You Know

That the Lord of a Jew deemed to wander until the Day of Judgment.

End of the War.

Ohio State Journal. Editor Geo. Fred Johnson of the Dayton News says that without exaggeration that we now see the end of the world war. It is probable the minister makes up his opinion from the financial standpoint, and that the expense of the war is incalculable, and whether this includes the production of the present of the war is a question. The opinion will surely be with a good deal of force. At any rate, there is an universal impression everywhere that Mr. Roosevelt's expectation is to be realized before many months elapse. Many people think the war should not end until the issue is not fought until the solution is made more clear. But that is a bad opinion. It is fought out now, to the point where all parties to the conflict can reach a sober conclusion, that it is all away with the injustice of the situation and make such a provision that will guarantee peace for all time to come. It is the easiest thing in the world for anyone to say "war" has not spoiled his judgment.

Quaker Quips

(Philadelphia Record.) Love that feeds on beauty alone will soon starve to death. The money that is the root of all evil belongs to other people. The people with more money than brains naturally have more dollars and cents. A man a girl has an idea she can't be so pretty as a picture unless she is painted. It isn't the fellow who shoots off a mouth that keeps the ammunition factories busy. Size doesn't always count. A pretty little dentist can take the nerve out of his biggest patient. Wigglesworth calls himself a man of letters. Waag—That's right. I hold his I. O. U. Don't give way to despair. If someone takes the shine off you, there are plenty of bootblacks. You never can tell. The fellow who wears the loveliest clothes does not always make the most noise in the world. Tommy: "Pop, every state has its capital, hasn't it?" Tommy's Pop: "Yes, my son, except sometimes the state of matrimony."

Competition Run Mad.

South Carolina owners of property subject to damage by fire face an embarrassing and even a highly dangerous situation. Practically all the fire insurance companies doing business there are suspending operations. The familiar machinery for distributing the burden of fire loss is coming to a standstill. In commenting upon the situation the Chicago Herald observes:

No, the fire insurance companies are not bankrupt. The bankruptcy is in the intelligence of the South Carolina legislature. In the face of the clearest warnings it insisted on denying the fire insurance companies the benefits of co-operation and expert knowledge in determining fire risks and rates.

South Carolina business has not been particularly profitable. Whether owing to bad building laws, inadequate fire protection or other causes, the loss rate has been running around 75 per cent of the premium. So the men who are trustees for investments in the fire insurance business decided that it would be better to get out of South Carolina.

Competition is good, of course. According to an old saying it is "the life of trade." But in certain kinds of trade the only safe course is co-operation, based on expert knowledge of the risks. The South Carolina legislature has prohibited that sort of co-operation to fire insurance and has insisted on competition run mad.

is first mentioned by Roger of Wendover in the Chronicle completed by Matthew Paris? The earliest known book on the legend was published at Leipzig in 1602 and professes to be derived from a previous one. The wanderer's name was Cartaphilus and he was doorkeeper of Pilate's palace. The legend goes that at the time of the crucifixion, he was thirty years old; whenever he reaches the age of one hundred, he becomes faint and when he becomes conscious again he is as young as when his doom was pronounced. He never smiles and refuses all gifts.

Our Language. The poet said, "Well, I be hanged, I'd like to have his language changed."

The Editor Announces. Says the editor of the Leoksburg Tribune:

We don't want an office but we are willing to help some kind friend with his electioneering if he'll see to it that our part of the canvas is among the female babies from sixteen to twenty years.

Spirit of the Press

Fire Protection. Two disasters in one day in northern Ohio. Aughton, Ga., Nashville, Tenn., and Paris, Texas, seem to indicate that the loss of stock, chest and iron prove time have not yet made any headway in that section. Such disasters, sweeps of flames, involving property losses well up in the millions, point to what is the prevailing building material. So long as frame houses are the rule big fires are certain to occur, despite all precautions.—Philadelphia Record.

Mines and Operators. The three years' agreement between the anthracite operators and mine workers will expire on March 31. By signing a protocol assuring the continuance of existing conditions for such time as the pending negotiations may last, both sides give evidence of a desire to avoid a violent break and indicate that they expect to agree upon terms in the settlement of their differences. But in the final adjustment it is to be hoped that the coal consuming public, which has no part in their long conferences, will not be entirely overlooked. It wants not only peace but money for itself.—New York World.

What Might Have Been. What awful waiting might have saved Europe from the bloodiest war in all history. St. Louis Post Dispatch.

Extending the Decision. Judge Landis holds the Associated Billposters of the United States and Canada to be a combination in restraint of trade. He might also have held that it is a combination to deprave art and deface nature.—Albany Argus.

Teeth. Some fellows never think about their teeth until something begins to prod the nerves in a very unpleasant manner. Do you know that few parts of your body have more to do with your general health and fitness than your teeth? We know there is no need warning most of you, but some of you are taking chances. Sixty seconds, three times a day, added to a twenty-five cent tooth brush, is pretty cheap insurance against pain, disease—and the kind of tooth you put in a glass of water while you sleep, for fear of swallowing them.—The American Boy.

Rippling Rhymes

Processional. The tumult and the shouting rise from Europe's red and harried shore; the kings and captains, to their eyes, are wading in a flood of sorrow; so let's talk peace, already lost, lest we regret, lest we regret. The nation's honor we'll defend, whenever the small rise the prod; out to this country's no friend who always wants to die and bleed; let's flout no sword or bayonet, lest we regret, lest we regret. The Jingo fierce will never cease berating people safe and sane, who'd rather have the boon of peace than see the landscape strewn with slain; let's gently drown him in his sweat, lest we regret, lest we regret. Build up the army, if you will, and make the navy great and strong; but don't confess a lust to kill, or talk of bloodshed all day long; don't claim that war's the one best bet, lest we regret, lest we regret. Don't be too eager that our sons shall seek the sodden fields of gore, to furnish targets for the guns of men they never saw before; don't whoop for death and dearth and debt, lest we regret, lest we regret.

WALT MASON.

BAND CONCERT OPENS PROGRAM FOR THE WEEK

Dress-Up Week was inaugurated today, not auspiciously it is true on account of the weather but the merchants have prepared for it and are ready to drop the curtains, or rather unveil their windows at 7:30 o'clock this evening.

Nearly all the merchants in the city are making a special effort at window dressing and some splendid decorations will be the result. Prizes of $10, $5 and $3 will be offered for the best dressed window and the prize winners will be announced Friday evening. The judges are: Frank Neighbor, Chas. H. Spencer, W. M. Morgan, Mrs. Neva Rees, Miss Carrie Allen and Mrs. Edward Kibler, Sr. These judges will select a seventh.

Opening night will take place this evening promptly on time. Watch the unveiling as the first notes of the Buckeye band fall upon the evening air at 7:30 o'clock. If it is not raining the band will render the first number, "The Star Spangled Banner," from the south steps of the courthouse.

Hon. B. F. McDonald will deliver the opening address after which a line of march will be formed and parade on West Main street to Fourth, north on the latter to Church, east to Third street and then around the square. The parade will be followed with a concert by the Buckeye Band.

In case of rain the band concert and parade will be postponed until Wednesday evening.

Tuesday evening the banquet of the Merchants' Association will be held at the Walden Hotel. Wednesday afternoon and evening is set aside for local automobile dealers.

Thursday evening is to be a public promenade and a secret committee will judge the best dressed lady and gentleman and they will be awarded prizes of $5 each.

On Friday evening will be the awarding of all prizes and the winners will be announced from the north steps of the court house at 7:30 o'clock.

Be sure and be present this evening for the unveiling of the windows and to hear the famous Buckeye band in one of their interesting concerts.

Society

Rev. and Mrs. Don D. Tullis will entertain the members of the Young Men's Bible class of the Second Presbyterian church at their home, 63 North Second street, Tuesday evening.

The regular program as arranged on the calendar for the Review Club was dispensed with at the Saturday afternoon meeting held at the home of Mrs. Omar Crane in Madison avenue, and two very interesting talks were given. Mrs. Edward Kibler Sr. gave a short talk on "Frustrated" and she was followed by Mrs. W. E. Lewis of Cincinnati, mother of Dr. W. H. Lewis of this city. Mrs. Lewis is a woman possessing unusual talent and ability and she gave a reading on "The Dawn of a Tomorrow" by Frances Hodgson Burnett. This book has been dramatized but Mrs. Lewis gave her own interpretation and it proved an innovation which exceptionally delighted and entertained.

With the club members Mrs. Crane also entertained a number of guests.

The Miscellaneous Needleworkers will meet at the home of Mrs. P. J. Irwin in Cedar street on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

In the account of a party given by Mrs. Melvin Parker, a misstatement was made, when it was announced as a card party. The hours were devoted to games and contests.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Wright entertained a few friends informally at luncheon on Sunday at their home in Granville street. The guests were Misses Mary Sherwood Wright, Martha Wright, Louise Norpell, John Ward and Charles Ward.

Charles Cocanour and Miss Beatrice Goff were united in marriage Saturday evening at the home of Rev. W. D. Ward, that gentleman solemnizing the ceremony, the ring service being used. They were unattended. Mr. Cocanour is a foundry clerk at the B. & O. and his bride was formerly employed at Weiland & Crawmers. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cocanour of East Main street and his bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Goff of North Gay street, where the newly married couple will reside for the present.

YOUR BRONCHIAL TUBES

When a cold settles in the bronchial tubes, with that weakening, tickling cough, immediate treatment is very important. The breath seems shorter because of mucous obstructions; usually fever is present, your head jars with every cough and your chest may ache. This is no time for experimenting or delay—you must get Scott's Emulsion at once to drive out the cold which started the trouble, and it will check the cough by aiding the healing process of the enfeebled membranes.

If you have any symptoms of bronchitis, or even a stubborn cold, always remember that Scott's Emulsion has been relieving this trouble for forty years. It is free from alcohol or drugs. Refuse substitutes.

Scott & Bowne, Bloomfield, N. J. 15-23

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush the Kidneys at once when Backache or Bladder bothers—Meat forms uric acid.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

SCHOOL BOY RELIEVED OF NERVOUSNESS

ENABLED BY THE USE OF TAN-LAC TO RETURN TO SCHOOL AFTER TWO WEEKS' ABSENCE.

"I Can Recommend Tanlac Because My Boy Was Helped By It."

Statements as to the beneficial effects of Tanlac continue to come unsolicited from both men and women who have tried it. One of the latest to endorse the master medicine is Mrs. James Wooley, whose husband is engaged in the grocery business and who resides at 456 South Second street. Mrs. Wooley has a young son who for some time has been in bad shape from the effects of nervousness and everything possible has been done for him, and no benefit derived until Tanlac was tried and that great nerve tonic has relieved him and Mrs. Wooley in speaking of the case says: "My boy suffered from nervousness, he was nervous, restless at night and felt weak and badly in the daytime. I bought Tanlac because it was recommended to me by a friend and my son's relief through him a great deal—in fact to such an extent that he has returned to school after a two weeks' absence on account of his condition and I recommend Tanlac because my boy was helped by it."

Tanlac in fact is beneficial in stomach, liver and kidney disease, catarrh, rheumatism and the after effects of La Grippe and pneumonia and a valuable system purifier and builder. Tanlac is demonstrated at Hall's Drug Store and is for sale at Pataskala by J. R. Strine, at Lebanon by the Hebron Drug Co.; at Granville by W. P. Vilman; and at Utica by P. H. Richardson.—Adv.

Milady's Boudoir

Many women would like to have the narrow penciled eyebrow, and as few brows grow naturally straight, this line will have to be secured by pulling out any of the hairs that grow beyond the line desired. This may be done without harm by the use of tweezers.

The application of red vaseline or castor oil is wonderfully beneficial in promoting quick growth. In applying either of these, particular care should be taken that the oil does not get into the eyes because it would irritate and inflame them. The best way to apply the oil is by using a small camel's hair brush and brushing gently, but firmly. Using the first and third fingers to gently pull the lashes will help too, because it strengthens the roots.

We have all seen transparent eyelids with the delicate blue veins barely visible through the fine skin, and they are so much more pleasing than red, heavy lids, swollen and coarse looking. To improve such eyelids, there is nothing quite so beneficial as a gentle massage with a good face cream. This will improve the texture of the skin, keep it in a soft, healthy condition and will also eliminate any wrinkles that may have formed.

With constant application of these few suggestions one is sure to see a marked improvement inside of a month. It might be well to state that the wise woman with beautiful eyes would do well to study their color, and as often as possible wear gowns to match them, this being one of the secrets of the well dressed woman.

Uncertain.

Have you purchased your new car yet, Mrs. Noorich?" asked the visitor.

"No, Mr. Smithers, I ain't. I can't make up my mind whether to get a gasoline car or a limousine car. May be you can tell me—does limousine smell as bad as gasoline?" inquired the lady.—Harper's Weekly.

Obituary

Funeral of Mrs. Fred Harris.

The funeral of Mrs. Fred Harris was held on Monday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Francis de Sales church and interment was made at Mt. Calvary cemetery.

Harry W. Connors.

Harry W. Connors, 67, well known Baltimore & Ohio conductor, died early Sunday morning at his home 22 1-2 North Fourth street, following an illness of over a year. Death was due to Bright's disease. Funeral services will be held from the Central Church of Christ, Tuesday afternoon at 10:30 o'clock. Rev. W. D. Ward and Rev. Geo. B. Schmitt, officiating. Interment will be made in Cedar Hill cemetery.

Harry Wilson Connors was born in Mount Chunk, Pa., March 11, 1849. He spent the early days of his life at his home and at an early age was united in marriage to Miss America Hamphill. To this union was born seven children, five of whom survive. He was employed as a brakeman by the Baltimore & Ohio railroad company, December 24, 1871. On August 17, 1880 he was promoted to freight conductor which position he held until February 15, 1915, at which time he was compelled to give up his run on account of illness. He was perhaps one of the best known men in the railroad's employ and especially on the Shawnee division over which he worked for many years. He was a conscientious and faithful employee and his record during the 42 years in the company's service was one of the highest efficiency.

Fifteen years ago his first wife preceded him in death and on February 22, 1906, he was united in marriage to Miss Bertha Lee Summers. No children were born to this union. He was for many years a member of Newark Lodge, No. 12, Knights of Pythias. The deceased also was a member of the Central Church of Christ.

He leaves to mourn his death besides a large circle of friends, his wife and five children, Edward Connors, of Newark, Tate Connors of Columbus, Mrs. Lottie Sealy, of Akron, Mrs. America Boyd of Washington, Pa., and Mrs. Edith Leppo, of Columbus, Ohio.

Mrs. Sarah Ambler White.

Mrs. Sarah Ambler White, 83 years old, widow of Henry White, formerly a Methodist minister in the Missouri conference, died Saturday night at 9 o'clock at the home of her son, near 56 North Second street, after an illness of nine weeks. Her death was caused by a general breakdown due to old age. She was born in Belmont county, December 23, 1832, and has made her home with her son here for the past two years. One brother, Louillis Ambler and the son are the only surviving relatives.

Funeral services were held at the home this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. L. C. Sparks officiating. Burial at Cedar Hill cemetery.

George W. Myers.

George W. Myers, aged 78 years and a veteran of the civil war died this morning at 4 o'clock at the home of his son, William Myers, death being due to general debility. He is survived by two sons, William, of 23 Poplar avenue and Osborn Myers of Coshocton. The funeral will take place from the home in Poplar avenue Wednesday, the exact time not having been determined.

Vada Glover.

Miss Vada Glover, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Glover, died at her home near Wilkins corners at 10:30 o'clock Sunday night, following an illness of two weeks. Death was due to scarlet fever and diphtheria. Funeral services will be held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock at the grave in Barnes cemetery. Rev. A. B. Cox will officiate. There will be no services at the home.

Miss Glover was a school teacher in Eden township for six months

MR. AND MRS. FRANK BOURNER.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bourner, 395 North Fourth street, have been enjoying the winter in Florida. The accompanying picture shows the result of two hours fishing at Tohoqualiga Lake, Kissimmee, Fla. The two hours catch weighed 45 pounds.

The Sick.

Con Wylie, former B. & O. employee, who has been seriously ill, underwent an operation at the City Hospital on Saturday. His condition is considered serious.

George Bowman, an employee of the B. & O. round house, who has been confined to his home in West Main street for the past eleven weeks with illness, was able to be out for the first time Saturday afternoon. His brother Clarence (Buster) Bowman, a well known taxi driver of the Sigler garage, who sprained an ankle six weeks ago, is still confined to his home.

Mrs. Theodore Lloyd residing near Wilkins Corners, was removed in the Bradley ambulance yesterday to the City Hospital for treatment.

Miss Lopham, residing two miles east of St. Louisville, was removed in the Bazler ambulance from her home to the City Hospital for an operation.

Our Boys and Girls

When my baby was small it was such a task for me to bathe him on my lap, that my husband made me a small table about four and a half feet high, four feet long and three wide. This was padded and covered with rubber sheeting and put a heavy Turkish towel on top of this. It was a great help.

Little linen suits with bloomers to match make cool, neat traveling clothes for little people, and suits of this kind will keep their freshness much longer than finer, prettier dresses.

When traveling with the baby it is a good idea to have a brown linen case which will hold two small pillows in clean, white slips. This case can be strapped to the outside of a suit case.

GERMANS REPORT BRITISH ATTACKS NOT SUCCESSFUL

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
London, March 27. 9 A. M.—A German torpedo boat is missing since the sea fighting which followed the British air raid Saturday morning on German aviation sheds in northern Schleswig-Holstein, according to an official German statement received here by wireless.

The state is as follows:
"The English naval aeroplane attack on the north Frisian coast failed completely. Two armed fishing steamers on outpost service fell victims to English vessels. Our naval aeroplanes attacked the English naval fighting forces and succeeded in scoring a number of hits and in seriously damaging a torpedo boat destroyer. Of the naval fighting force which we sent immediately, only a few torpedo boats came in touch with the retreating enemy during the nights of March 25-26. One of these torpedo boats has not returned."

AMATEUR WIRELESS OPERATORS PERFECT AN ORGANIZATION

The amateur wireless operators of Newark met at the home of Rev. Don D. Tullis, in North Second street last week and organized what is to be known as the Amateur Wireless Operators Association of Licking county. Mr. Tullis was elected president of the association, Carl Howard, secretary; John Spencer, treasurer and Paul Horton, inspector.

The association will include every amateur operator in the county and its purpose will be to instruct and benefit its members in wireless experimenting. A set of rules were adopted which will govern the operators and the inspector will see that the rules are followed by the members. Licking county is rapidly acquiring a number of wireless operators and the city of Newark alone has quite a colony. A great many more instruments will be installed in the near future by local amateur enthusiasts and the new association gives promise of developing into a large organization.

The agricultural progress of Guatemala since 1900 will be shown at a national exposition in Guatemala City in October.

AMERICAN DOLLAR BECOMES POPULAR WITH CHIHUAHUANS

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Columbus, N. M., March 27.—The American dollar rapidly is finding a place in the hearts of the people of northern Chihuahua, according to soldiers and civilians arriving at the border today from General J. J. Pershing's headquarters.

The people of the districts through which the American troops passed at first were coldly friendly, but when they found that Americans did not commandeer their live stock and food supplies as have Mexican armies passing through the same district, their courtesy and friendliness increased.

The prices increased when the inhabitants found that the Americans had money and was willing to spend it to satisfy his wants. An example cited is that eggs were readily purchasable for ten cents a dozen by the first troops passing through La Ascension but by yesterday the price paid reached fifty cents a dozen and showed signs of rising further.

The arrivals said that the word that the Americans desired products and would pay for them passed rapidly from town to town and gardeners with wagons were drawn up the main street of La Ascension, Colonia Diaz, and Casas Grandes by the time the second detachment of troops reached those places.

Lieutenant H. A. Dargue of the aeroplane corps left here early today on the first trip from Columbus to Casas Grandes in the recently established aeroplane line.

Troy People Report Results Following Tests of Vap-O-Rub

When This External Treatment for Colds Was First Introduced in Troy, Local Druggists Presented Complimentary Jars to a Few of Their Customers, Requesting That They Report the Results.

Bel. We Give a Number of These reports from Troy Citizens.

It does seem ridiculous to say that you can relieve croup in fifteen minutes, and most colds,—either head or chest, in one night, just by applying Vick's Vap-O-Rub Salve, over throat and chest. Actually this treatment is superior to internal medicines and in the South is universally used for all forms of cold troubles, from head colds, asthma and catarrh, down to deep chest colds, sore throat, bronchitis, gripple, or incipient pneumonia. You just apply it over throat and chest and cover with a warm flannel cloth, leaving the covering loose around the neck, as the body heat releases the ingredients in the form of vapors. These medicated vapors are inhaled with each breath all night long, loosening the phlegm and opening the air passages.

Mrs. John Sharitis, 747 W. Water Street, Troy, Ohio, reports:—
"It stopped my little five year old son's cough after all other remedies had failed. I can not praise it too highly."
J. C. Stratton, 402 W. Main Street, Troy, Ohio, reports:—
"I never had a medicine to relieve a cold more promptly."

Mrs. Louella Morris, 734 Ridge Avenue:—
"I think your Vick's Vap-O-Rub Salve is the best of its kind I have ever used. It gave immediate relief in each case for which I have used it."
Vick's Vap-O-Rub Salve comes in three sizes, 25c, 50c or $1.00.

LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK, CROSS, FEVERISH

WHEN CONSTIPATED OR BILIOUS
GIVE "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS."

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative," they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeiters sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

Considering that the month of March has been one of our severest months, and that there has been much sickness among pupils the attendance and punctuality are both good. Three buildings, Hartzler, Riverside and Texas report no tardiness whatever. The High school, Fourth street school, and Franklin school lead in good attendance. The following teachers are to be commended for having most excellent attendance: Mr. Dickerson, 99 per cent; Mary Larson, 97 per cent; H. M. Beatty, 97 per cent; Miss Avey, 97 per cent; Bertie Jones, 98 per cent; Anna Booth, 97 per cent; Bertha Latimer, 97 per cent; Isabelle Somers, 98 per cent; Miss Mohlenpahr, 97 per cent; Faith Fry, 98 per cent; Mary Kilpatrick, 98 per cent; Mary Newman, 98 per cent; Lena Anderson, 97 per cent; Anna Frye, 97 per cent; Dora Brennstuhl, 97 per cent; Margaret Browne, 97 per cent; Bess Taafel, 97 per cent; Mabel Pugh, 97 per cent; Ruth Hollar, 97 per cent; Emily Hall, 97 per cent; Miss Guthrie, 97 per cent.

Teachers made 147 visits to the homes of children during the month and since the beginning of the year 1915 such visits have been made. Parents made 36 visits to the schools during the month and since the beginning of the year 2535 such visits have been made. This shows a healthy interest on the part of both teachers and parents.

On Friday, April 14th, Arbor Day exercises will be held in every school room of the city. These exercises will consist in readings, in the distribution of flower and vegetable seeds, the planting of shrubbery and trees upon the school grounds and playgrounds, and some time will be devoted to cleaning up about the school property. Friends of the schools are invited to these exercises.

Newark has had reason to feel pretty proud of its High school during the past month. On March 10th Newark High won both debates with Mt. Vernon and Zanesville. On the same date the basket ball team made a fine showing, winning three games out of four in the State contest at Delaware, and last week the annual High school minstrels were bigger and better than ever.

AGED SICK MAN LITTLE IMPROVED.

The condition of George "Doc" Darling, 95, of Elmwood avenue, who suffered severe injuries last week in a fall, today was reported to be little improved. "Doc" suffered a cut above his left eye that necessitated three stitches to close in addition to a badly contused face. He was able to leave his bed for a short time today.

SISTER MAY SEEK TO BREAK RICH BROTHER'S WILL

Columbus, March 27.—Mrs. Helen Chittenden Zeigler is expected to file suit to test the validity of the will of her brother, Campbell M. Chittenden, who died last week.

She was not bequeathed anything. The will states that she already had been "amply provided for." The same statement is made in reference to the half-brother, H. T. Chittenden, a student, who also is cut off from sharing in the estate.

Mrs. Zeigler's attorney, Thomas E. Powell, is quoted as expressing doubt as to the validity of Mr. Chittenden's testament. This was drawn six days before Mr. Chittenden's death. A suit to break it may be filed at any time within one year after it was probated.

Mrs. Zeigler's home is in New York. She is now in possession of an estate almost as large as that of her dead brother.

GREAT DAY AT MAPLE AVE. C. U. CHURCH SUNDAY

Yesterday was a big day at the Maple Avenue Christian Union Church. Three great crowds, three wonderful sermons, six accessions to the church, ten conversions, and the church presented with a large silk American flag by the Woman's Relief Corps of the G. A. R. at the afternoon services. People cheered themselves hoarse as the Old Stars and Stripes waved out over the crowded auditorium of the church, and during Evangelist Ackley's address in the afternoon, many times during his talk he was compelled to wait for the applause to cease before he could continue his address, many people expressed themselves as having heard from Mr. Ackley's lips the greatest temperance address ever delivered in the city. At the close of his address, Evangelist Ackley unfurled over the heads of the people a large American flag and called for all men who loved the flag and who would pledge themselves for a saloonless America, and who would vote against the stuff to stand to their feet, practically the entire house stood to their feet and cheered.

Services were announced for each night this week and three services next Sunday. Meeting for men only next Sunday p. m. at 2:30.

OHIO MILITIA IS READY FOR MEXICAN DUTY

PREPAREDNESS MEETING IN NEWARK TONIGHT TO RE-
ORGANIZE CO. G.

This City Not Behind Others in Patriotism and Easily Can Rank With Them.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Columbus, O., March 27.—Ohio's 3004 national guardsmen are ready today, with few exceptions, for service in Mexico.

Adjutant General Benson W. Hough estimates that less than 10 per cent would decline to volunteer for duty outside of the United States, and many more retired militiamen would clamor to fill their places. They can be mobilized at Columbus, recruited to war strength, equipped, provisioned, and sped on their way toward Mexico's sands within a week if necessary.

The chief distinction of the national guard of Ohio over those of other states lies in the seven machine gun companies, with an eighth ready to be mustered in. It ranks first in strength as gauged by machine gun organizations. Massachusetts, ranking second, has only five.

Thirteen hundred mules, 1830 horses and rations for five days are the principal needs of the national guard for complete mobilization. Three hundred wagons are ready at Camp Perry.

Here is the composition of the Ohio militia: Eight regiments with an extra battalion of infantry with 6365 men; a medical corps with 418 men; three batteries of field artillery, 283 men; four troops of cavalry, 257 men; a battalion of 211 engineers; the signal corps of 153 men; the naval militia of 289 men; and the quartermaster's corps of 17. There are 74467 enlisted men and 558 officers.

The guard is now considered organized at peace strength of 65 men to a company, but about half the companies have from 5 to 15 less than that number. Plenty of former members of the guard, now on the reserve list, are available to recruit the companies either to the normal peace strength or to the ordinary war strength of 100 men to a company. It is said. The procedure in mobilization would be to recruit to the strength desired before the company leave its home station. In case of emergency, however, recruits could be taken and sent to join their company either at the centralization camp in Columbus or the active field headquarters.

Governor Frank B. Willis, of course, is ex-officio commander in chief of the Ohio National Guard, and Adjutant General Hough is in active command. William V. McMaken of Toledo and John C. Speaks of Columbus are brigadiers general in command of the two brigades. Regiments in the first brigade, with their mobilization points and commanders are: Sixth, Toledo, Colonel Lloyd W. Howard of Toledo; Second Lima, Colonel J. Guy Deming of Ada; Third, Dayton, Colonel Robert L. Hubler of Dayton. In the second brigade are these regiments: Eighth, Mansfield, Colonel Edward Vollrath of Bucyrus; Fifth, Cleveland, Colonel Charles N. Zimmerman of Cleveland; Fourth, Columbus, Colonel L. Bargar of Columbus.

The unattached regiments are the Seventh, Athens, Colonel Harry D. Knox of Marietta, and the First, Cincinnati, Colonel William C. Proctor of Cincinnati. There are also these unattached units: A separate battalion of colored troops with companies at Columbus, Dayton, Cleveland and Springfield; signal companies at Toledo and Columbus; a battalion of engineers at Cleveland; cavalry troops at Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati and Toledo; artillery batteries at Columbus, Akron and Cleveland; hospital companies at Cincinnati, Columbus, Youngstown and Toledo. The naval militia has companies at Cleveland and Toledo and uses the training ships Essex and Dorothea.

A MOVEMENT TO
REORGANIZE CO. G;
MEETING TONIGHT.

A preparedness meeting will be held this evening at 7 o'clock in the G. A. R. Hall, when a movement along the lines of reorganizing company G will be pursued. At a meeting a week ago a great many veterans of the Spanish-American war signified their willingness to join the new company and tonight further plans of organizing will be taken up.

An appeal is being made to the young men of the city to join the new company and to help Newark retain a militia organization. This city by losing its militia company is letting the chance of a new armory slip through its fingers and the training in war fare, essential to many young men, is being neglected.

Verne Priest, promoter of the meetings for a preparedness organization has secured the consent of a great many men in Newark who have promised to be on hand tonight and help in the organization. The militia company throughout the state have been federalized and are now under the supervision of the government.

COMFORTING WORDS

Many a Newark Household Will Find Them So.

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed—to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous urinary disorders, is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. The following advice of one who has suffered will prove comforting words to hundreds of Newark readers.

William H. H. Deenis, 50 German street, Newark, says: "I had such a bad back I couldn't attend to my work. If I tried to bend, a sharp spitch caught me. Nights I couldn't sleep well because of dull pains across my loins. Mornings I couldn't stoop to put my shoes on. My wife often had to assist me to dress. The kidney secretions passed too frequently every night and got me out of bed. The secretions also contained heavy sediment. I failed to get any benefit from different medicines until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. Three boxes completely cured me."

WORK BEGUN ON BIG PLANT FOR FUEL EXTRACTION

The Ohio Fuel Supply company has begun work on the construction of their new $75,000 extraction plant at Homer and within a few months the new plant is expected to be ready for operation. Fifteen men are now engaged in the work of grading the road approaching the proposed new building and weather permitting, material for the building will be on hand by next week.

An office building of concrete block 15 x 30 will be erected and will be modernly equipped. The company is not sub-letting the contract for the construction, but is employing its own men and supervising the work. An official of the company stated today that "no booze hoisters" would be employed by the company which would have employment for a great many local men in a few weeks. He said that any man caught taking a drink would be fired from his job, as the company had determined to employ nothing but sober and reliable men.

The initial plans for the new plant are said to be unique in design and of modern construction in every respect. The construction of the new plant will be similar to one out in Pennsylvania, which a company has erected for the extraction of gasoline from natural gas and has contracted for the gas from about 400 wells. The wells are small, the total production being less than a million cubic feet a day, but they have been producing for a long time, and as the gas comes from a sand 100 feet in thickness, their life is said to be good for an indefinite time.

The gasoline company puts the gas through its compressors and then sells it to a large glass factory nearby, taking out of the gasoline not injuring the gas in any way for fuel. The gas is put under 300 pounds pressure to the square inch, which forces out the gasoline, which is carried into tanks and blended with naphtha, rendering the gasoline safe to ship, as without this blending it would be as dangerous as nitro-glycerine owing to its high gravity.

The shipments of gasoline from the plant are running about 120,000 gallons a month and ten tank cars are required to care for the production. The same company also has put in a high pressure compressor at the plant, which will be used in compressing the natural gas into steel tanks under 800 pounds pressure. It is planned to sell this compressed gas in the same manner as Blau gas or Plush gas is now sold.

HER FATHER'S DEATH

SYNOPSIS.

Mary Page, actress, is accused of the murder of James Pollock and is defended by her lover, Philip Langdon. Pollock was intoxicated, shate, a crowd and tool of Pollock, was on the first escape watching for Langdon. At Mary's trial she admits she had the revolver. Her maid testifies that Mary threatened Pollock with it previously, and Mary's leading man implicates Langdon. Mary's escape after the murder is a mystery. Brandon tells of a strange hand print on Mary's shoulder. Further evidence shows that horror of drink produces temporary insanity in Mary. The defense is "repressed psychosis."

PSYCHOLOGISTS and those scientists who study the human brain declare that the focus of consciousness is dual, and that unless the sub-conscious mind supplements the conscious concentration, the attention is easily diverted. Thus it was that Mary Page, sitting in the prisoner's dock with the Damoclean sword of justice above her, was now unconscious of the crowd in the courtroom.

Mind and soul were alike concentrated upon Langdon and upon the slow building of the evidence that was to free her from the charge of having murdered James Pollock.

A tumult of old memories was surging about her, as witness after witness told of the tragedy of a year before; (a tragedy that had so grim a sequel in the present) and yet there were strange nightmarish blanks in those memories—spaces where fact had to give place to imagination, and during which she had hung in the mullity of uncounted moments, merging like a person under ether to momentary pain, scared consciousness, only to sink whirling back into oblivion. And it was of these moments of which Mary herself knew only by hearsay that the witnesses were now testifying.

Mary did not realize the subtlety with which Langdon was calling these witnesses. In fact, it was doubtful if any of those in the courtroom except perhaps the Prosecutor and the Judge, appreciated the skill with which he brought out each detail in his turn.

In pursuance of his method of bringing out events as they had happened he had already, at a "bar-side conference," asked permission to recall his witnesses a second or even a third time. Thus it came as a surprise only to the spectators when Mrs. Page again took her place in the witness-box.

"Mrs. Page, you told us yesterday of how your daughter, struggling with her drunken father, was struck by him and fled screaming from the house. Will you tell the court, please, what followed that flight? Did you go after her or remain at home?"

"It was impossible for me to follow as quickly as Mr. Langdon did," she said quietly, glancing toward the Judge. "So I stood at the gate waiting, feeling sure that it would only be a very few minutes before he would return with my poor, half-crazed girl."

"I went back as far as the window. It was very cold and I wanted to get a wrap, but I—I was afraid of my husband. I saw him sitting by the table still drinking. At last, however, he fell over onto the couch asleep, and I went in and got wraps and blankets, thinking to start out myself in search of Mary. As I came out of the cottage I saw Mr. Pollock drive up in his motor. He said, 'My God, she'll die out there in the cold. They must be a pack of idiots not to have found her in this time.' Then he grabbed the other man by the arm and said, 'Get in the car and show me how to reach the place where the searching party is. I'll find Mary—I promise you that.'"

"Did he offer to take you with him?"

"Yes, but I felt that I must stay at home in case—in case they brought her back, or she wandered back of her own accord."

"Did you go into the house after they had left?" Langdon's voice was very gentle now, and Mrs. Page smiled at him, a smile that was far sadder than tears as she said:

"No—I wrapped myself up and sat on the steps. I—I felt nearer to Mary out under the stars."

"That is all, Mrs. Page."

But now the District Attorney was on his feet holding up an arresting hand.

"Mrs. Page," he said harshly, one lean finger thrust towards her menacingly, "if your husband struck your daughter and injured her so terribly that she temporarily lost her reason, why doesn't she carry a scar?"

"Why, she does." There was a note of surprise in the quick answer, and Mary's fingers tightened ever so little about the rail in front of her.

"Is it possible to show the court that scar?" There was a sneer in the voice; a sneer born of the realization that something must be done to stem the great tide of sympathy for Mary, and cast disparagement upon this story from the past. But his request was a boomerang, for when Mary, trembling a little, took her place before the court, and, lifting the skirt from her forehead, showed the great livid mark of a hidden scar, the murmuring of compassion that swept through the room found a mute echo in the bench itself, and the Prosecutor, discomfited, swung curtly away and dropped into his seat as Langdon called the next witness.

"John Alexander MacPherson."

"Mr. MacPherson, you have told of seeing Miss Page running through the wood and of my finding her. Will you tell us now, please, whether you saw me again on that night and under what circumstances?"

"I saw Mr. Langdon again on that night in the hour. I had nae more than reached home and were tellin' my guide wife of the evening when there came a knock at the door. I opened it, and there stood Mr. Langdon. He was all in a feery farry—not to say commotion, and his face were white. Beyond him I cude see twa or three other men—all excited like."

"Did you recognize them?"

"Aye, there were men from the town—I had seen them often, and taken a wee drapple wile them at the hotel come Saturday night. But it were Mr. Langdon who spoke. 'Have you seen Miss Page,' he cried, catching at my sleeve. 'We are looking for her.' 'Div ye mean the say you've lost her again?' I asked; and he said, 'Yes. I sat down to rest a bit and I must have lost consciousness. When I came to, she was gone.'"

"Did you go with any of the three men?"

"Havers, no, man! I came back for my cap and coat, and I got to the door

"I—I felt nearer to Mary out under the stars."

just in time the save Mr. Langdon from a bad fall, for he would have been over in a heap if I hadna caught him. My guide wife and I took him in the house, and when he was revived a bit I was for leavin' him, but he wouldn't stay. He said, 'I must find Mary myself—it was I lost her the second time.' So we went out together."

"How long was it before you got a trace of her?" Langdon's voice was toneless, but his eyes were alight with fire as he pictured to himself that strange night hunt for the slender girl he loved. The occasional shouts of the other searchers; the flash of a lantern; the heavy shadows and vividly white snow; the cold that stung his face and hands and the aching weariness that numbed his muscles. It had been like a nightmare to him, a dream that set his head to throbbing, and in which the only real thing was the stalwart bulk of MacPherson encouraging him forward—and then—the little shoe! He roused himself with a start, realizing that the Scotchman was answering his question.

"It might have been fifteen minutes—maybe more, when we come to her little footprints in the snow. Then—" He paused a moment and his voice softened, "we found her wee slipper in a snow bank. A bit further we found 't'other one—and the snow began to be flecked wif' drops of blood. But I should say it was nae more than half an hour before we come upon the lassie herself, lying in a faint like."

"Was she conscious?"

"Nae, and we could na bring her to, so we wrappit her in our coats and took her back to the guide wife."

"Will you tell us please in what condition Miss Page was when I—when you—arrived at your house with her?"

MacPherson frowned at the memory and a deeper note crept into his tone as he said slowly:

"She was nae conscious, and her clothes were tairn to pieces and hangin' in ribbons. Such clothes as she had on, poor lassie! Her feeties were cut wif' the ice and the stones, and there was a terrible wound on her forehead and an ill faured queer bruise on one shoulder."

"Was your wife alone in the house when you returned?"

"Nae, there was maybe half a dozen men traie the town. Who had heard of the lassie and had come to help the search. They set up a shout when they saw us, and I had one of them fire his revolver to tell the others Miss Page was wif' us."

"Did they show any emotion at the sight of Mrs. Page's condition?" asked Langdon, and a little shudder shook Mrs. Page, who alone of all those present knew of the tragedy to which that emotion had led. MacPherson's voice, too, was grim as he said:

"I wouldn't call it emotion, but there was a gude bit of murrurin' against those who had driven so sweet a lassie distracted and sent her to maybe her death in the snow. The murrurin' grew louder when they saw the hurt and there were cries to know who had done it. When Mr. Langdon told them, the murrurin' grew louder and finally one of the lads cried out in a loud voice, 'This town has na room for wifebeaters and drunken brutes—he ought to be hung.'"

A stir of excitement swept through the courtroom, for MacPherson, with out a gesture, with no more than a rising inflection of his voice, had brought before them a vision of the snowy night and the little horse, from whose doorway the lamplight streamed out, mellowing the snow to gold, and touching with its fingers of light the grim faces of that group of men stirred to the deep anger of the mob at the thought of Dan Page's brutality.

"Did the other men make any threats?"

"Aye. Another one of them cried out, 'Killin' is too good fer Dan Page. He should be horsewhipped out of town.' At that, my wife come up to me and says, 'For the lassie's sake, don't let them be takin' the law into their own hands or there'll be murder done this night.' So I cried 'Dinna take the matter too personal, lads—we've law and a goal in this town. Somebody get the sheriff.'"

"Did they heed you?"

"I couldn't tell at the time, because just then a cutter comes dashin' oop with twa men in it, and one shouts out, 'Have you found Mary Page? And they all answers, 'Yes, she's found.' Then he says, 'T'm James Pollock—her fiancé—and I have come to take her home.'"

"Was Miss Page still unconscious?"

The question came sharply. MacPherson shook his head.

"Nae, she was conscious, and when she heard him she gave a cry of 'No, no, no!' and dragged herself up from where she lay and clung to Mr. Langdon. At that the man Pollock pushed by me and cried, 'Mary! Mary—I have come to take you home.'"

"Did Miss Page answer him?"

"Nae, she just shookit her head, and Mr. Langdon said, 'Miss Page is not going home yet.' But Mr. Pollock was fair angry and shouted, 'What the feck have you got to do with it? Haven't you made trouble enough?'"

"Did Mr. Pollock make any move toward Miss Page?"

"Aye. He tookit a quick step forward like he would carry her off, but the guide wife stoppit him. 'Ye'll na move the poor lassie till she is warm and a bit,' she said, and put her arm about her and tookit her into the bedroom beyond. Mr. Langdon helped her and when he came out he said, 'Miss Page will not return to her drunken father. My friend Mr. Jamison and his wife will give her temporary shelter and the proper medical attention.'"

"Did Mr. Pollock acquiesce?" Langdon's voice was dry with reminiscences.

"Mr. Pollock was fair angry, and he said, 'It is not for you to say what my future wife shall do. I'll not have her put with your friends. She shall go home with me—I can protect her from her father. I suppose you think you can carry her right off under my nose. Well, let me tell you that's called by an ugly name!' At that Mr. Langdon shouts, 'What do you mean, Jim Pollock? Tell me what you mean by that!' He lookit so fierce I feared a fight, so I went between them and said, 'Dinna fash yersels like that. Think of the poor lassie—and be quiet.' Then I says to Mr. Pollock, 'Ye'll gang outside a bit and when the lassie is resit, I'll let ye know.'"

"Did Mr. Pollock go then?"

"Aye, for I went wif' him to the door myself."

"Were the men still outside?"

"Na, and it g' me a shock like, for I cude see na one exceptit the friends of Mr. Pollock. The others had all slippit awa' towards the town."

"Did you speak of their absence when you re-entered the cabin?"

"Na, for I had ither matters to make clear. I had made up my mind that it was na with Mr. Pollock that the lassie should go, so I pit it aie Mr. Langdon, that wif' my horse in the sleigh, we cude carry the lassie out the door to the kitchen and drive off, leavin' the guide wife to tell the others."

"I can protect her from her father."

"Did you carry this plan out?"

"Aye. We fillit the sleigh with blankets, and I pit my shot-gun in the front and we helpit the lassie out."

"Will you tell us please," broke in the Judge with some asperity, "what you expected to do with a shot-gun?" And a little twinkle sparkled for an instant in MacPherson's eyes.

"Mr. Pollock was in an automobile," he said, "and shot at me with a gun. I wouldna call it emotion, but there was a gude bit of murrurin' against those who had driven so sweet a lassie distracted and sent her to maybe her death in the snow. The murrurin' grew louder when they saw the hurt and there were cries to know who had done it. When Mr. Langdon told them, the murrurin' grew louder and finally one of the lads cried out in a loud voice, 'This town has na room for wifebeaters and drunken brutes—he ought to be hung.'"

A ripple of laughter swept through the room, instantly hushed at the warning frown of the Judge, and MacPherson, his huge brown hands gripped about the edge of the stand, turned inquiringly towards Langdon.

"Will you tell us, Mr. MacPherson, as briefly as possible, what occurred while you were on your way to the residence of Dr. Jamison?"

"We had na mair than got startit when the noise of the horse brought one of Pollock's friends to the corner of the house to look oop the back road. At sight of us he gave a cry and ran back, shoutin' to Mr. Pollock."

"We had a fair getaway, but na horse is as gude as one of those devil machines, and they were after us at once. So I tookit the reins and gave them to Mr. Langdon and said, 'You drive, and pit the lassie down. I've a way of stoppin' them as is bein', but I need my hands.' At that I tookit my gun and stude up in the sleigh. I cude see the others plainly, and I shoutit, 'Go back, unless ye want to be hurtit!' But they only swore at me, and when I saw they were gainin' I sent a load of shot towards them. It did na harm, but they stoppit short, ta see if there was hurt. 'They'll na come after us again the night,' I said, but it was na mair than a few minutes before Mr. Langdon said, 'I hear the motor.' And I said, 'There's another barrel to the gun.'"

It was a strange scene that he drew for them in his deep, quiet voice—a scene so unreal that it was incredible to most of those present that it could all have happened not so very many miles from the courtroom where they now sat—a scene with the dark, snowy road and the silent woods for its setting, with the flying sleigh speeding almost noiseless over the slippery road. Langdon, his face white and set with fatigue and anxiety holding the tugging reins in one hand while the other arm held close the half-conscious form of Mary, her bandaged head ghastly above the enveloping blankets; while over them towed of the grim figure of the great Scotchman, his shot-gun to his shoulder, his big body swaying with the speed of the flying sleigh.

"I waited till they came oop too close," he finished, a deep note throbbing in his voice, "and then I did for a tire wif' the second shot. The auto 'tch upset wif' the force of the explosion, and they all jumpit out. And that was the last we saw of them."

"Did you see in at Dr. Jamison's house when you reached there?"

"Na. For wif' I had seen the poor lassie taken away by the kind gude wife of the doctor, and I knew she were safe, I kept thinkin' of how fast the men had gone fra the house that night, and I says to Mr. Langdon,

'I will jes' take a run back to the town, I'm thinkin', and make sure there's na harm comin' to Dan Page through this night's work.' And Mr. Langdon says, quick like, 'What do you mean?' So I told him and the doctor, and Mr. Langdon was all fer comin' wif' me, but the doctor wouldn't let him. 'Dinna fash yersel,' I said, when I saw the doctor was right. 'I'll gae fast, and if there is need for you I'll come right back.' And the doctor said, 'You're all worn out, Philip. You've got to have some rest. Be sensible.' So I went back alone."

"At what hour did you reach the home of Miss Page?"

"I dinna ken the exact hour, but it were about daylight, and I cude see quite a ways ahead of me."

"Will you tell us, please, what you saw when you approached the Page house?"

Slowly one great hand clinched itself into a knotted fist, and the muscles of his jaw tightened, and across those who sat between, the gray eyes of the Scotchman and the tear-dimmed eyes of Mrs. Page met in a mute communion of terrible memories. Then, slowly, with a new tone of suppressed excitement leading a thrill to his voice he said:

"When I got nle enough to see the hoose, I cude see a great black splotch in front of it, that I made out to be men. Then I cude hear shoutin': 'Come out, Dan Page, we're summat to say to you!' So I didna drive right oop to the place. I stoppit in the road and crept through the wood at the back and, hiding under the hedge, got oop to the rear. Then I wrote on a wee scrap of paper, 'I've news of Mary—and I come to bring help.' Then I tappit on a window, till I saw Mrs. Page peerin' out—and I held up the paper."

"After a minute or so she unlatched the back door and I slippit in. 'Oh Mr. MacPherson,' says the poor lady cryin', 'is my girl safe?' And I says 'Safe and sound asleep.' And she says 'Thank God.' Then I heard another voice sayin', 'Annie, Annie—who is it? Don't let them get me—oh, my God, don't let them get me!' And I saw that Dan Page was hidin' behind her, clingin' to her skirts like a scared bairn. His face were all drawn and twistit like, and his mouth was slobberin', and he kept cryin', 'I was drunk—I was drunk! You tell them, Annie—You tell them!' At that she says like one speakin' to a child, 'There, there, Dan—you're safe!' And then there came an awfu' cry from outside. 'Come out, Dan Page—or we'll smoke ye out like the beast that ye are!' At that Mrs. Page began to sob and says, 'Oh, what shall I do? What shall I do? They will na talk to me—and they'll burn oor hoose, they'll burn oor hoose! Oh, if Philip were only here!'"

"Dinna greet," I said, 'I'll get him but he mun ha' time. Let Dan Page go upstairs and talk to them from a window.'"

"Oh, Dan," says the poor lady, 'Dan—will you do that? Tell them you didn't mean to hurt Mary—or me. 'No, no,' he whimpered, 'I can't, I can't.' But I grabbit him by the arm and pulled him to his feet. 'Be a man, I cried, and I shookit him. 'Be a man and get you upstairs!'"

"You'd be safe in the cupola, Dan," says Mrs. Page. 'I'll stay with you—and this kind man will go for Philip.' But he kept sayin', 'No, no,' and I could hear the others bawlin' at the door and I dared not stay, so I slippit out the way I came and went off for Mr. Langdon."

Mrs. Page, whose anxiety to be near Mary had kept her from returning to the witness room, shuddered at the memories that MacPherson was conjuring up out of the past. The softness which time has lent the tragedy of that chill winter morning was stripped off, exposing the old horrible wound, and she could feel again those groping fingers, icy cold, clutching at her as she strove to drag Dan Page up stairs towards the cupola.

She could hear his voice, now thick with drink, now athrill with terrible fear—as he pleaded with her to hide him and to save him. She had been mercifully numb with the horror of it then; consumed only with the desire to hold those men at bay long enough for MacPherson to bring help, and it was that desire which gave her the strength to drag the heavy bulk of her husband up the two flights of stairs into the little cupola at the top.

She could feel again the sting of the cold dawn wind against her face as she stepped out on the platform of rough boards and dropped the inert figure of her husband at her feet.

Then with all the eloquence of her great fear she had pleaded with the mob below to go away. They had seemed all eyes floating on a great pool of blackness against the snow as she looked down, but later she could see the grim mouths below the eyes and knew that her pleas were falling on deaf ears.

Finally one who seemed to be the ringleader had stepped forward and cried:

"Where is your husband? It is he that we want to talk to." And she had lied and said, "He is sleeping."

They muttered ominously at that and again the ringleader spoke: "We have no quarrel with you, Mrs. Page, but no drunkard who strikes his daughter and drives her insane shall stay in this town—Dan Page has got to go."

"He will, he will," she promised wildly. "I'll take him away today. He didn't mean to hurt us—he didn't know what he was doing—But he'll go away—oh, I promise that." And again the grim voice answered her:

"He'll go, but WE'LL see him off. Let him stand up like a man and talk to us."

At that they all took up the shout for Page, and he, lying on his face on the boards, moaned and prayed to the God he had long forgotten, to save him.

How long she talked and urged and wept and pleaded Mrs. Page herself did not remember, but somehow she had held them—still threatening—still ominous—till far down the road she saw a small speck that she knew was an approaching sleigh with two figures in it.

At sight of it she had forgotten everything except an infinite relief, and crying in her joy had sped down stairs, leaving Dan Page still huddled in the windy cupola.

If she hadn't—she shuddered, and caught her breath in a smothered sob, and for a moment the court-room hung in a haze before her and the voice of MacPherson speaking on the witness-stand receded to a vast distance and seemed to be again the murmuring voices of that angry mob. But she fought back the impending faintness and the rising tears, and as one bracing himself against the impact of some great weight, she straightened her slender shoulders to meet without flinching the story of that morning's tragedy.

"When Mr. Langdon and I drove oop," MacPherson was saying, "the men were still there, and Mr. Langdon stood oop in the sleigh and made a speech to them urging them to go home quietly. 'Miss Page is safe in the hands of a good doctor,' he said, 'and you will only make a bad matter worse if you attempt to carry out this plan of whipping Dan Page out of town. I'll see to it that he leaves the community, but if you drive him out this way, it's going to mean disgrace to the town and to Mary Page, too. Do you suppose she could bear the thought of her father's having been publicly whipped?' 'Well,' shouted one of the men, 'tis not beatin' her the way he has done it—Drivin' her and—the brute!'"

And the crowd began to murmur again. Then Mr. Langdon told them that the drink was like a ragin' beast inside Mr. Page, that he knew nought of what he did; that he probably didn't remember anything—that he really loved his wife and his girl. And while he was talkin' one of the men gave a cry and pointit oop, and there in the cupola stood Dan Page—wild like the daft, clingin' to the rail, and he cried out, 'What he says is God's truth. I love my wife and girl as much as you men love yours—It's whiskey that hurt them—not me. I've been a slave in the grip of a fiend all my life. I've tried—my God, men, I've tried—to keep away from it—but it gets me. The sight of it—the smell of it—the taste of it—is ever in my mind. I drink because I must, and drink more to drown the memory of it! I've lived in hell for years, and no horsewhipping could punish me—as does the knowledge of this night's work.' Then suddenly he burst out cryin'—sobbin' like a child, while the men stood stannin' oop at him. Then he flung out his arm and said, 'Philip—take care of them—be careful of Pollock—I'm going to take myself out of the community—now! And at that he leapt oop onto the rail and jumped!'"

MacPherson broke off abruptly, and his hand shook as he wiped the drops of sweat off his forehead—and the shudder that gripped him swept through the entire room at the thought of that body hurtling through the air down upon the snow to stain it with that swiftly flowing stream of crimson.

"Oh, Dan," says the poor lady, 'Dan—will you do that? Tell them you didn't mean to hurt Mary—or me. 'No, no,' he whimpered, 'I can't, I can't.' But I grabbit him by the arm and pulled him to his feet. 'Be a man, I cried, and I shookit him. 'Be a man and get you upstairs!'"

"You'd be safe in the cupola, Dan," says Mrs. Page. 'I'll stay with you—and this kind man will go for Philip.' But he kept sayin', 'No, no,' and I could hear the others bawlin' at the door and I dared not stay, so I slippit out the way I came and went off for Mr. Langdon."

She could hear his voice, now thick with drink, now athrill with terrible fear—as he pleaded with her to hide him and to save him. She had been mercifully numb with the horror of it then; consumed only with the desire to hold those men at bay long enough for MacPherson to bring help, and it was that desire which gave her the strength to drag the heavy bulk of her husband up the two flights of stairs into the little cupola at the top.

She could feel again the sting of the cold dawn wind against her face as she stepped out on the platform of rough boards and dropped the inert figure of her husband at her feet.

Then with all the eloquence of her great fear she had pleaded with the mob below to go away. They had seemed all eyes floating on a great pool of blackness against the snow as she looked down, but later she could see the grim mouths below the eyes and knew that her pleas were falling on deaf ears.

Finally one who seemed to be the ringleader had stepped forward and cried:

"Where is your husband? It is he that we want to talk to." And she had lied and said, "He is sleeping."

They muttered ominously at that and again the ringleader spoke: "We have no quarrel with you, Mrs. Page, but no drunkard who strikes his daughter and drives her insane shall stay in this town—Dan Page has got to go."

"He will, he will," she promised wildly. "I'll take him away today. He didn't mean to hurt us—he didn't know what he was doing—But he'll go away—oh, I promise that." And again the grim voice answered her:

"He'll go, but WE'LL see him off. Let him stand up like a man and talk to us."

At that they all took up the shout for Page, and he, lying on his face on the boards, moaned and prayed to the God he had long forgotten, to save him.

How long she talked and urged and wept and pleaded Mrs. Page herself did not remember, but somehow she had held them—still threatening—still ominous—till far down the road she saw a small speck that she knew was an approaching sleigh with two figures in it.

At sight of it she had forgotten everything except an infinite relief, and crying in her joy had sped down stairs, leaving Dan Page still huddled in the windy cupola.

If she hadn't—she shuddered, and caught her breath in a smothered sob, and for a moment the court-room hung in a haze before her and the voice of MacPherson speaking on the witness-stand receded to a vast distance and seemed to be again the murmuring voices of that angry mob. But she fought back the impending faintness and the rising tears, and as one bracing himself against the impact of some great weight, she straightened her slender shoulders to meet without flinching the story of that morning's tragedy.

"When Mr. Langdon and I drove oop," MacPherson was saying, "the men were still there, and Mr. Langdon stood oop in the sleigh and made a speech to them urging them to go home quietly. 'Miss Page is safe in the hands of a good doctor,' he said, 'and you will only make a bad matter worse if you attempt to carry out this plan of whipping Dan Page out of town. I'll see to it that he leaves the community, but if you drive him out this way, it's going to mean disgrace to the town and to Mary Page, too. Do you suppose she could bear the thought of her father's having been publicly whipped?' 'Well,' shouted one of the men, 'tis not beatin' her the way he has done it—Drivin' her and—the brute!'"

And the crowd began to murmur again. Then Mr. Langdon told them that the drink was like a ragin' beast inside Mr. Page, that he knew nought of what he did; that he probably didn't remember anything—that he really loved his wife and his girl. And while he was talkin' one of the men gave a cry and pointit oop, and there in the cupola stood Dan Page—wild like the daft, clingin' to the rail, and he cried out, 'What he says is God's truth. I love my wife and girl as much as you men love yours—It's whiskey that hurt them—not me. I've been a slave in the grip of a fiend all my life. I've tried—my God, men, I've tried—to keep away from it—but it gets me. The sight of it—the smell of it—the taste of it—is ever in my mind. I drink because I must, and drink more to drown the memory of it! I've lived in hell for years, and no horsewhipping could punish me—as does the knowledge of this night's work.' Then suddenly he burst out cryin'—sobbin' like a child, while the men stood stannin' oop at him. Then he flung out his arm and said, 'Philip—take care of them—be careful of Pollock—I'm going to take myself out of the community—now! And at that he leapt oop onto the rail and jumped!'"

MacPherson broke off abruptly, and his hand shook as he wiped the drops of sweat off his forehead—and the shudder that gripped him swept through the entire room at the thought of that body hurtling through the air down upon the snow to stain it with that swiftly flowing stream of crimson.

"Oh, Dan," says the poor lady, 'Dan—will you do that? Tell them you didn't mean to hurt Mary—or me. 'No, no

Money Couldn't Buy It

The relief he personally experienced moved Mr. W. L. Briggs, Kansas, Okla., to write to the Plank Laboratories a letter of appreciation in which he says:

"Fruitola and Traxo helped me so much I am advising all who suffer with gall-stones to try them. Money wouldn't buy what this medicine has done for me."

Fruitola is an intestinal lubricant that softens the congested masses, disintegrates the hardened particles that cause so much suffering and expels the accumulated waste to the intense relief of the patient. Following a dose of Fruitola, Traxo should be taken three or four times a day to restore the system that has been weakened by constant suffering. It is a splendid tonic, acting on the liver and stomach most beneficially.

Fruitola and Traxo are prepared in the Plank Laboratories at Monticello, Ill., and arrangements have been made to supply them through representative druggists. In Newark they can be obtained at Evans' Drug Store, Warden Hotel Block.

BOND ISSUE

FOR JOINT HIGH SCHOOL FOR GRANVILLE VILLAGE AND TOWNSHIP.

Both Boards of Education Urge Voters to Vote "Yes" on the $60,000 Proposition.

Granville, March 27.—An election will be held tomorrow in Granville village and township upon the question of issuing a total of $60,000 bonds for the construction of a joint high school. Thirty thousand dollars each is proposed for village and township.

The following appeal is made in favor of the issue:
To the Voters of Granville and Granville Township

As tax payers in Granville village and Granville township we appeal to you to consider carefully the following discussion concerning the new joint high school proposition:

Present Conditions.
First—Overcrowded. Because of our overcrowded condition it has been necessary to house the first primary grade in the Municipal building during the latter part of this year. The high school quarters are so overcrowded that it is impossible to do satisfactory work. Next year promises a still larger enrollment.

Second—Lack of Equipment. Chemistry, physics and other sciences are being taught in Granville High school without adequate equipment. There is one small, poorly arranged chemical laboratory and no other laboratories of any kind. Moreover in the present plant it is impossible to provide facilities for manual training, domestic science, commercial training, agricultural laboratory work and shop work. Granville has already been notified that if these conditions continue her first grade charter will be taken away. Can we afford to let our high school make second class?

Contemplated Plans.

First—Building and Equipment. It is proposed that a new joint high school building be erected at a total cost of $60,000. One-half of this sum is to be paid by the village, the other half by the township. This sum is considered sufficient to erect a building with all necessary rooms for assembly, recitation, laboratory, manual training, domestic science, agricultural and commercial purposes. Besides this there will be an office, a library, room for seventh and eighth grades, dining room for lunches, gymnasium and auditorium. With this building and the present building all pupils, both high school and elementary, in Granville township and Granville can be accommodated for probably twenty years to come.

Second—Management. According to state law a joint high school is managed by a committee of four, two members chosen from each board of education. This prevents the high school being "run" by either the village or the township. The law also provides that all students of high school rank, both in the township and village shall have the same privileges in this school.

How Will This Affect Your Taxes?
First—in the village. Bonds for $30,000, running for twenty years, will cost $1.28 on each $1,000 of taxable property according to the present duplicate.

Second—in the Township. A $30,000 bond issue will cost you 50 cents on each $1,000 of taxable property, according to the present duplicate. The cost of maintenance for both high school and elementary pupils need not be greater than the present cost of educating the pupils in the township. Already the township board is paying tuition equal to interest on about $22,000 for very inadequate high school privileges.

Advantages Both to Village and Township.

First—Increased Educational Facilities. Besides a well equipped building suited to a modern, up-to-date high school the increased area from which to draw revenue will provide more instructors and through better salaries, the management can secure better trained and more efficient teachers.

Second—Social Center. It is is wonderfully pure. The planned to provide an auditorium to seat about eight hundred. This will furnish accommodations both for the township and village, for social, educational or community gatherings of all kinds for young and old.

Third—Prolong School Life of Many Boys and Girls. Only a small per cent of those who enter school ever finish the high school work. This is partly due to limitations in our present course of study. By adding more work in agriculture and commercial training and by putting in domestic science, manual training, shop work, and regular physical training many more students will complete the high school work.

Distinct Advantages to the Village.

First—A More Desirable Residence Town. Better schools will go far to attract a desirable class of people to Granville and thus help to build up the town.

Second—Increased Value of Property. This will result from the better situation of Granville as an educational center. Greater school facilities will make greater population and this will stimulate the demand for property, thereby resulting in increased values and lower tax rate.

Third—Increased Business. Attracting more people to Granville will increase business. Students coming from the surrounding community will spend money among our merchants and trades people.

Distinct Advantages to Township.

First—It Will Give the Township Undesired High School Privileges. If this bond issue fails, present indications are that the township will be without high school privileges within its borders. Granville High school is now filled beyond its capacity. The inevitable increase of next year and the years to come will compel the village board to provide only for their own pupils. This can be prevented by providing a new building to which the township can point with pride and say: "This is our high school."

Second—Provision for Elementary Pupils. The village board, by recommendation for any or all of the township elementary pupils as soon as the new building is constructed. To balance the excess paid by the township over the village for the maintenance of a joint high school, the village board agrees to school free of tuition a sufficient number of township elementary pupils whose tuition would equal this excess in any year.

Third—Increased Value of Property. Men with families to educate will always pay more for farms situated in a community where there are good, free schools than where there are lacking.

Fourth—Better Roads. When farmers get to sending larger numbers of children to a central school it will soon bring about a demand for better roads throughout the township.

Fifth—Improved Farming. Our present school plant provides little or no means of interesting the boy and girl in farm life. With a new building properly equipped, with agricultural laboratories, and with land provided for experimental farm work our young people can be interested in the problems of the farm and this will ultimately result in more intelligent and successful farming.

Sixth—Will Tend to Keep Boys on the Farm. When agriculture is as a branch of learning is put on the same basis as any other science, receives the same attention, and merits the same respect among our young people, then and not till then, will the problem of "Overcrowding the Cities" and "Back to the Soil" be solved. The possibility of a new modern building and an up-to-date four-year high school course in agriculture will go far to solve this problem for our community.

Conclusion—Vote "YES" on the bond issue.

Respectfully submitted,
Board of Education,
Granville Township.
Board of Education,
Granville Village.
Joint Committee on Publicity.

COUNTY BOARD FAVORS
CHERRY VALLEY SCHOOL.

The following action has been taken by the County Board of Education as reported by the County Superintendent:

Newark, O., March 27, 1916.

To the Patrons of Newark Township Schools:

I am giving below a copy of the resolution passed by the Licking County Board of Education relative to the situation in Cherry Valley schools. It is needless to say that this resolution was framed after a most careful review of the situation considering the question from all angles. Entry on minutes:

In the matter of special school district in Newark township: The evidence in this case clearly proves to our board that Cherry Valley is actually in need of a better school building—a substantial, modern, up to date building of at least four rooms and basement, which will probably cost as the evidence shows from $15,000 to $17,000. The County Board of Education believes that this is a question that should be settled by the people of Newark Township School district for themselves. Bonds should be sold according to law to provide the needed funds. If this is done Newark Township School district will be kept intact. For the present, this board refers the matter back to the people of said school district with recommendation that they proceed at once to provide this needed improvement. This board for the present reserves its decision upon the question of the formation of the special school district, petitioned for until such time as the people shall have a chance to act and then in case of neglect or failure to act and accomplish the purpose intended this board will take up and decide the question as to the formation of a special school district prayed for in the petition. We believe it is better not to divide Newark Township School district, but circumstances may render it necessary.

"The foregoing entry was made in the minutes."

"ELMER W. JORDAN,
County Supt. Schools."

CONTRACT LET FOR
HANOVER SCHOOL.

The contract for the erection of new high school building at Hanover has been awarded to Mr. B. E. Rutherford, a local contractor, after stiff competition from contractors in various parts of the state.

The amount of contract is $24,686.93.

This building is strictly up to date, fire proof, and to be built after the pattern of the Gary schools, which are considered the best and most up to date in the country. It will consist of six class rooms, an auditorium seating 600 people, play rooms, a modern heating and ventilating plant, etc.

The building is to be located on a terrace at the turn of the road at the east end of Hanover, on the Pike's Peak Coast to Coast highway. Plans and specifications for this building were prepared by the local architect, Mr. W. E. Patton.

FLAGRANT

VIOLATION OF GERMANY'S PROMISE
IF STEAMSHIPS HAVE BEEN TORPEDOED.

United States Would so Consider it,
if Established That Either Was Victim of Submarines.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Washington, March 27.—Definite information regarding the sinking of the steamship Englishman and the damaging by explosion of the channel steamer Sussex were anxiously awaited by President Wilson and Secretary Lansing today. This information was momentarily expected from American consular offices in England and France.

If it is established that either of the vessels was torpedoed by a German submarine, the United States would regard the act as a most flagrant violation of the rights of humanity, of the principles of international law and assurances given by Germany regarding the conduct of submarine warfare.

Until all the facts in the case are at hand, however, administration officials will reserve judgment, although there is no attempt to minimize the gravity of the situation should it develop that either of the disasters was due to a submarine attack and that American lives were lost.

Latest official information at the state department was a dispatch from the American embassy at London forwarding affidavits from Edward S. Huxley and Francis E. Drake, New York, survivors, swearing that the explosion on the Sussex occurred "without the slightest warning," and crediting the ship's commander with saying that he saw a torpedo's wake.

SECOND CHILD IS BORN TO SAYRES.

Philadelphia, March 26.—A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Francis Dows Sayre here yesterday. She will be named Eleanor Axson Sayre, for Mrs. Sayre's mother, Mrs. Sayre has been in this city visiting her aunt, Mrs. A. W. Howe, sister of the president, for several weeks. The president wired his congratulations. The Sayres have one son, Woodrow.

ARE YOU LIKE THIS?

If you are irritable you may be the last person to realize it unless you honestly examine yourself. Are you?

Are you subject to headaches? Do you forget easily? Is it difficult for you to keep your mind on your work? Do you have a sense of weakness in arms and legs and get tired easily?

If this description fits your case you need a non-alcoholic tonic, for these are the symptoms of neurasthenia. Write today to the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., for the free booklet on "Diseases of the Nervous System" and get a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills from the nearest drug store. Begin the treatment at once. You can tell when the tonic action of the pills is helping you because your appetite will pick up and what you eat will not distress you. As the rich, red blood reaches every part of the body the feeling of weakness and depression disappears and you know that you are taking the right treatment.

Some people can hardly avoid neurasthenia. They are born with a tendency to it. But, by building up the blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills this tendency may be overcome and the condition corrected. Try your faith to this treatment and soon worrying, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will be sent by mail, postpaid, at 50 cents per box; six boxes $2.50.

Reports from Every State

All Agree that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Wonderfully
Relieves Woman's Suffering.

From all parts of this country the clearest evidence is constantly coming to the office of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. of Lynn, Mass., proving the wonderful power shown by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in controlling ills peculiar to women. Here are letters from Vermont, Arkansas and New Jersey:

It Cured Me!

Roxbury, Vt.—"A year ago last December I was taken with a female trouble and doctored for it but did not get any help until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My back troubled me a good deal and these troubles lasted so long that I grew terribly poor and I felt a great deal easier lying down. No one knows what I suffered. I did not dare consult another doctor I was so afraid he would say I had got to have an operation. I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was a god-send to me for after suffering about eight months this wonderful medicine cured me."—Mrs. NELLIE E. FRENCH.

Her Best Friend.

Weehawken, N. J.—"I must call you my best friend for what your remedies have done for me. I am 50, and am passing through the change of life and for some time I felt bad but since I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel fine and will recommend it to every woman who suffers as I did."—Mrs. KATHIE LEONARD, 419 7th St., Weehawken, N. J.

Had Awful Pains in Side.

Branch, Ark.—"Every month I suffered with cramping pains and I had awful pains in my left side. I was very irregular. I had a tired feeling all the time and did not sleep good at night. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and in three months I was well."—Mrs. MAE GATTIS, Branch, Ark.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

The Bradley ambulance removed him to his home. Mr. Conley entered the building to visit the G. A. R. rooms and got into the passage way leading to the basement. His injuries are not serious.

Service Thursday Night.
At St. Paul's Lutheran church Thursday night, Rev. Eldon C. Dolbeem of Delaware, O., will deliver an address, "The Exclusion of the Betrayer." Rev. Mr. Dolbeem is secretary of the Miami Conference of Lutheran churches of which Rev. George Bohon Schmitt of this city is president. These Thursday night meetings are largely attended and are proving profitable to those who are attending.

Two Paid $61 in Fines.
Two men arrested Saturday night on charges of being drunk and visiting "red light" resorts, paid into the strong box of Mayor Bigbee the sum of $61. The older man was fined $25 and costs for visiting a resort and $5 and costs for being drunk. His expense totaled $38. The younger man was fined $10 and costs on the first charge and $5 and costs for being drunk, a total of $23. Four other drunks drew fines of $5 and costs.

Shoes Proved Costly.
Shoes which were priced to Geo. Jackson at $2.49 cost him $18 in the end. He tried the shoes on and delayed making up his mind so long that the clerk waited upon another customer. Jackson walked out without paying for the shoes. He was arrested and charged with drunk and petit larceny, pleading guilty to both charges. He was fined $5 and costs on each charge amounting to $18. He was ordered committed.

BULLET THROUGH WINDOW STRIKES MR. BLACKWELL

A mysterious shot fired in West Newark this morning struck Ussel Blackwell, 332 West Main street, in the side after breaking a window through which it passed. The origin of the shot is not known.

About 8 o'clock Blackwell was washing his hands, standing near the window. The bullet struck the window, making a small hole, then striking the man in the side. No serious wound was inflicted but Blackwell was badly frightened.

Officers Abbott and Hurlbaugh investigated the case but were unable to find the careless user of the rifle. This is the second case of wild shooting in this vicinity in the past few months. A bullet narrowly missed O. A. Hare of Western avenue several months ago, lodging in a porch post beside his head as he was about to enter the house.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)
Athens, March 27, 9 a. m. Via Paris, March 27, 12:15 a. m.—Dispatches from Saloniki say that front attacks which had hitherto been considered merely as trying out operations on the part of the Bulgarians and Germans are now assuming the character of a general attack against the advanced line of the allies.

Considerable vigor is being displayed and heavy artillery is being employed on both sides.

It is worth a great deal to local sufferers from nervous ills to have knowledge of a cure for them through local or neighborhood folks who have tested this wonderful tonic and found it not wanting. Many sellers of medicines depend altogether upon statements from far-away people whom no local person knows. Here is a statement from H. H. Myers of Toboso:

"My brother, C. H. Myers, is 24 years old and has been overworked and had nervous prostration and all the ills that go with such a condition—such as sleeplessness, lack of ambition, a lagging appetite, and a generally run-down state. After taking Nerv-Worth for several weeks he has recovered sufficiently to go to work and we feel that Nerv-Worth has done wonders for him."

MANAGER ENGLISH ENTERTAINS GUEST

Edwin DeCoursey, business manager of John W. Vogel's minstrel, was a visitor in the city today, having come here to arrange for the overhauling of the Vogel minstrel car and to visit his old friend, Manager Harry English of the Auditorium. The Vogel show was compelled to close last week on account of a number of their men being called in for rehearsals for the big circuses this summer. Rehearsals for the tingling show start today at Baraboo, Wis., their winter quarters and 10 musicians from the Vogel minstrel joined the aggregation today. Mr. DeCoursey will spend the day with Manager English and will leave for his home at Chicago tonight.

Mr. Vogel will spend the summer at Buckeye Lake where he has a handsome summer home.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

Try this! Brush Sage Tea and Sulphur Compound through your hair, taking one strand at a time.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and not a medicine. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

May Irwin Enroute.
The May Irwin theatrical troop passed through Newark last night en route from Springfield, O., to Cumberland, Md. The company occupied a sleeper and the scenery was handled in one baggage car.

A poet should have a vivid imagination. He is even inclined to talk about love in a cottage.

Is Your Home Dressed Up?

Is it just like you would like to have it when your friends call upon you? Have you been promising yourself that you would "fix up" that room a little? It may be a new table, a new set of chairs, dishes, rugs, some piece or pieces for the library, parlor, dining room or hall. Next week is Dress-Up Week—why not take advantage of the spirit of the week and treat yourself to a general clean-up of the home? Our new spring stock of Home Furnishings are more complete than ever before, and we invite you to visit our store and see what awaits you here.

Don't Wait a Minute Longer

Why You Should Observe "Dress-Up" Week

It is community work for the uplift and upbuilding of the city of Newark. The work of the people make the city, and every well dressed woman, man and especially the child, adds a pleasing asset to the city's attractiveness, and makes it a better city in which to live.

The result of "Dress-Up Week" will be carried along with us throughout the year, and its value will be impressed upon everybody's mind, because it is the concerted action of the entire city.

The part the merchant plays is to add to the occasion by bringing on more attractive lines for the week, making this the best week of the spring to do your buying, offering special values to everybody who works in with the idea, and by displaying the latest creations of style and comfort.

You will have a pleasant evening if you enter into the spirit of the day, by promenading the business section of the city, listening to the music and feasting your eyes upon the best efforts of the home merchants, who will make their windows attractive, by showing the best of merchandise.

Watch Our Windows And See Our Display of Spring "Dress-Up" Ideas

Promptly at 7:30 tonight the curtains will be raised, and the festivities incident to "Dress-Up Week" will begin. Every window shows one of the new spring ideas, either for personal adornment or for dressing up the home. The "Dress-Up" idea means to use the newest and finest productions of the market and this week all the stores of the city will take pleasure in displaying in their windows and throughout their various departments, the many choice importations that one requires to be properly adorned.

Join the crowd and come in and see what the Spring Season has brought forth.

PNEUMONIA

CAUSED DEATH SECRETARY NATIONAL DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE TODAY.

Thomas J. Pence an Original Wilson Man, and Was Offered Several Government Posts.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Washington, March 27.—Thomas J. Pence, secretary of the Democratic National Committee who had been ill for several months as a result of pneumonia, died at his home early today.

Mr. Pence probably had as extensive acquaintance among Democratic politicians throughout the country as any man who ever occupied an official position with the national committee. He was one of the original "Wilson men" and after the last election was offered several important government posts. He declined them all, however, and became assistant to the chairman of the National Committee in permanent headquarters here.

At the meeting of the National committee last December, Mr. Pence was chosen its secretary.

Mr. Pence was a friend of President Wilson and was the daily companion of his secretary, J. P. Tumulty, and of several prominent administration senators.

For many years he was Washington correspondent of the Raleigh, N. C., News and Observer, which is owned by Secretary Daniels of the navy department.

Because of Mr. Pence's protracted illness, W. R. Hollister, secretary for Senator Stone, recently was appointed as assistant secretary of the national committee and was designated by Mr. Pence as acting secretary.

President Wilson was deeply shocked when told of Mr. Pence's death and expressed deep regret. With Postmaster General Burleson and Secretary Tumulty, Mr. Pence had directed all of the detailed political work of the administration since the president took office.

Granville

(Special to Advocate.)

Granville, O., March 27.—Rain yesterday and this morning has not improved the appearance of Granville streets, which are in fact even worse than they look. Broadway is a trial of patience, a three-quarter mile stretch of pitfalls and hurdles. With Postmaster General Burleson and Secretary Tumulty, Mr. Pence had directed all of the detailed political work of the administration since the president took office.

Up to 7 o'clock this morning the rainfall in Granville registered 1.52 inches, the heaviest in the state, according to Dr. L. E. Davis' government report.

Denison will close for a week's vacation beginning on March 28 and continuing until April 7. To judge by the activity in social circles by the young people, most of the students will be in no hurry to leave, as preparations are being made for the annual spring party in several of the fraternities.

The ladies of the Baptist Social Union are already preparing for the annual church supper to be given in the social rooms of the church next Thursday evening, March 30th, which will be followed by the annual business meeting of the church. All members are cordially invited to this supper and this meeting.

Don't fail to attend the lecture by Prof. H. D. Fish, this evening at 8 o'clock in the Granville Opera House. The topic this week will be "Experimental Evidence as to the Inheritance of Such Character as Our Environment Impresses upon Us." These lectures are of ever increasing interest, being beautifully illustrated with lantern slides and everybody will be the better for attendance. They are given the public free of charge. All expenses being defrayed by the Men's Bible classes.

Kappa Phi Sorority held initiation services Saturday morning, which were followed by a trip to Watkins farm in the Welsh Hills, for a sorority breakfast. The affair savored somewhat of a re-union as several out-of-town alumni were present.

Miss Katherine Critchfield of Mt. Vernon is the guest of Mrs. Marion Rose Johnson for a few days.

Miss Elizabeth Porter of Vevay, Indiana, formerly of Denison, who came for the Kappa Phi initiation is spending a few days in the village. Prof. and Mrs. C. E. Goodell in College street.

Miss Mamie Geach of Birmingham, Mich., and Miss Claire Geach of New Lexington, O., are spending their vacation at the home of their parents, Postmaster and Mrs. John Geach in Granger street. They attended the Kappa Phi initiation on Saturday.

300,000 BATHE INTERNALLY

The marvellous growth of Internal Bathing since the advent of "J. B. L. Cascade" is accounted for only by the enthusiastic praise of its users to others, but also by physicians insisting more and more that the Lower Intestine must be kept free from waste to insure perfect health and efficiency.

Dr. J. L. Walker, M. L. D., Olean, N. Y., writes: "I must tell you of a case of Constipation lasting for twenty years, that was cured by your Cascade treatment."

"The physician in charge said the patient had a tumor lying between the stomach and intestines. The patient being 62 years old, he claimed no help could be given except the knife; but finding the intestine in a very bad state, I advised the 'J. B. L. Cascade,' which resulted in a complete recovery. When I took the case she was taking a laxative three times a day, and had been for three weeks; couldn't get along without it—now she never takes any."

TRENCHES

OF GERMANS BLOWN UP FOR A DISTANCE OF ONE HUNDRED YARDS.

This Piece of News is Authenticated by Berlin Official Report Issued Today.

(ASSOCIATED PRESS TELEGRAM)

Berlin, March 27, via London 3:45 p. m.—More than 100 yards of German trenches near St. Eloi, have been blown up by the British, German army headquarters announced today.

West Prussian regiments were successful in recapturing the artillery observation positions lost by the Germans on March 20 near Mokrzyce, near Norocz Lake on the Russian front, today's announcement also states.

Reports have been received from Athens that a French transport with troops on board from Saloniki had struck a mine and sunk, 73 persons being rescued, says the Overseas News agency.

Theatres

Alhambra Tonight and Tomorrow.
The scenes of the bronco busting, trick riding, branding and in fact all the out of door scenes in the Pallas production "Ben Blair" were taken on a ranch belonging to one of the last of the cattle barons. The thousands of acres of rolling lands sustain 50,000 head of cattle.

In strong contrast is the scene that represents the exterior of the Winthrop city house. Here the meetings of Ben and the girl who wishes to be forgotten was played before a mansion in the most exclusive residential district of beautiful Los Angeles.

The structure is acknowledged to be one of the most beautiful among beautiful homes and cost over $125,000.00.

This Pallas offering is coming to the Alhambra. Tonight and tomorrow.

Gem Theatre.

Rough riding is a form of amusement found only on the western plains. The people of the east had to depend on Wild West shows for their exhibitions of the reckless daring cowboys, mounted upon bucking bronchos, until moving pictures were invented. Never before has there been a better moving picture showing the picturesque country of the west than "A Knight of the Range," a Red Feather photo play featuring Harry L. Carey which the management of the Gem theatre has booked for next Thursday.

"The Lilac Domino."

Andreas Dippel will present the greatest musical success of the season, "The Lilac Domino," at the Auditorium Theatre tomorrow night, March 28.

This is the rare treat of the musical season and is conceded to be the brightest, breeziest, cleanest and most thoroughly enjoyable musical production that has been presented here in many seasons. It has fun and dancing of every variety, a fashion display of magnificent, up-to-the-minute costumes and every other feature for popular entertainment, but all subservient to the wonderfully seductive charm of the music and score, song by artists would do credit to the most expensive grand opera. Bradford Kirkbride, a leading light opera singer, Yvonne Derle, with the highest and sweetest of high soprano voices, Amporita Farren, Robert O'Connor, Joseph Carey, Ville Andre Corday of the Opera Comique, Paris, George Curzon, Lillian Broderick and her dancing partner, are some of the principals. The chorus is composed of lovely girls of the peach-blow variety, and the orchestra is in charge of Milan Roder, the world-famous Viennese conductor. The whole production is on an unparalleled scale of magnificence.

The Mazda.
A thrilling western picture, "Her Brother's Pard," will be shown at the Mazda today. Sam Prior, a miner, receives a letter telling of his uncle's death, leaving him a fortune, and leaves with Jack Martin with identification papers to claim the fortune. Sam got drowned and Jack taking the identification papers masquerades as Sam. He meets Sam's sister and falls desperately in love with her. She falls into the hands of a Mexican desperado leading a band of outlaws and her rescue by Jack forms an interesting narrative.

SECOND-HAND CAR WOULDN'T RUN; MUST BE REPAIRED

Two men from Columbus, sent here by the Curtin-Williams company to drive back to Columbus the second-hand Cadillac automobile bought by former Safety Director Carl Dayton for use in the hydrant repair department, returned to Columbus without the machine.

"It will take two days' work and considerable expense to put the car in condition so it will run," one of the men said after examining the machine. It has not been out of the garage in the rear of the police station since it was delivered last fall, according to the officials and therefore it was hardly in condition for use when delivered.

TARIFF COMMISSION

provision of $1,000 fine or imprisonment for one year for any member or employee of the commission who divulges any secret of the commission.

Representative Rainey said the bill would not be submitted to a party caucus, although to save time, it probably would be added to the omnibus revenue bill. Because it is hoped to make the commission permanent, he declared the bill provides for an annual appropriation of $700,000 to meet its expenses.

"The measure, in my judgment insures in the future tariff stability and whenever revisions appear to be necessary, it will make it possible to make them intelligently," said Mr. Rainey. "If enacted into law, it will come as near removing from the tariff, unfair and unreasonable partisan action as any measure yet conceived."

The measure would give the commission full power to compel the attendance of witnesses and give the access to and the right to copy any document of any individual or business, concerned in the production or sale of any article under investigation.

No person could be appointed to the commission who has been elected or served either in the house or senate.
